B.C. May Go After 1968 Winter Olympics

Deputy provincial secretary Lawrie Wallace said Tuesday the British Columbia cabinet hopes to hold a fact-finding meeting soon with parties interested in bringing the 1968 Winter Olympic Games to Garibaldi Park.

Mr. Wallace said every effort will be made to arrange a meeting with Canadian Olympic representative Sydney Dawes and Dave Matthews, president of the B.C. Amateur Athletic Union.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood and Premier Bennett have already expressed interest in the suggestion the games be held at Garibaldi Park, 30 miles northeast of Vancouver. A U.S. business syndicate is interested in developing Garibaldi as a resort area.

Earlier in Ottawa, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he has no knowledge of any plans to build a $12,000,000 skating rink in Vancouver. He was replying in the Commons to Guy Rouleau (L, Montreal-Dollard) who asked whether there were plans to build such a rink with a view to attracting the 1968 Winter Olympics to Western Canada.

'No Missile Bases'

Bonn Seeks Franco Link

Britain Against

BONN, Germany (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government indicated yesterday it was considering negotiating with Spain for the right to set up military supply bases in that nation behind the Pyrenees.

In a statement issued by the federal press office, however, the government denied rumors that it was negotiating to establish military weapons sites or weapons training grounds in Spain.

The West Germans have been in negotiations with France, Belgium, Holland and Denmark for more than a year for establishment of supply depots in those countries. In most cases the talks have been concluded although no formal agreements have been signed, a defence ministry spokesman said.

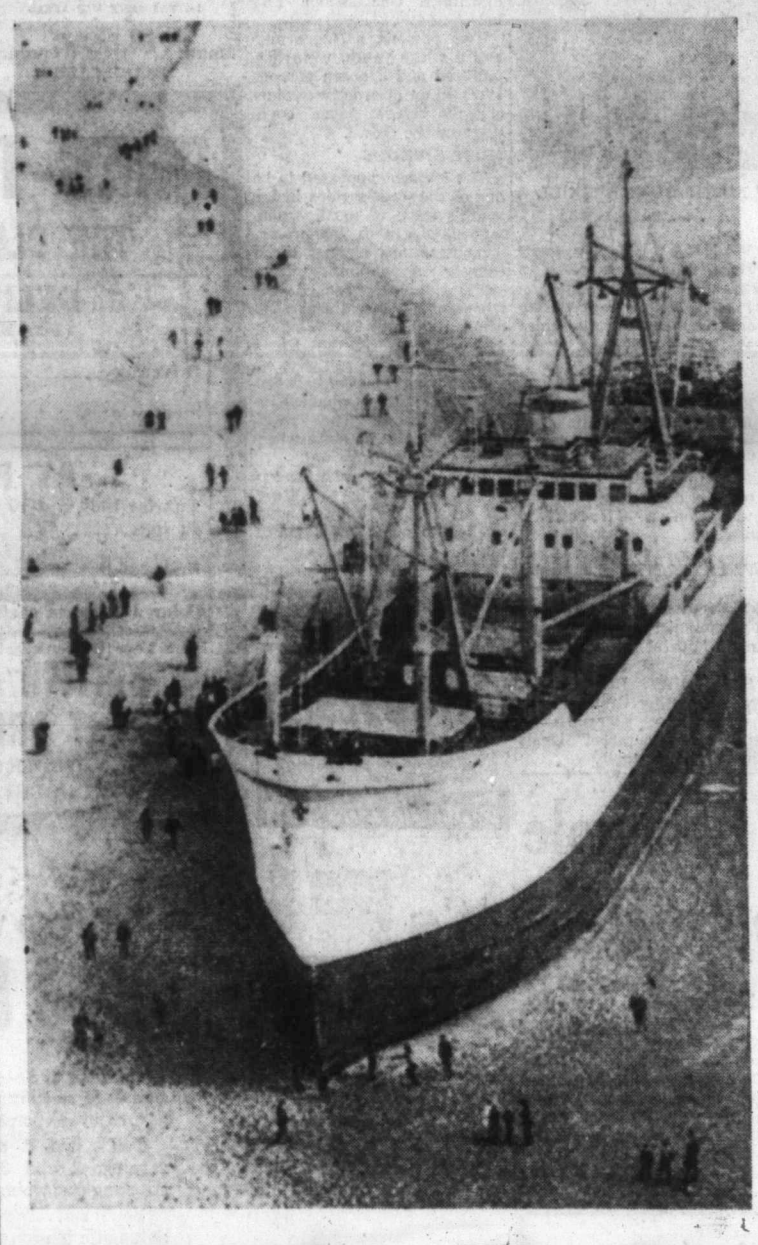

The government's statement said that West Germany was considering whether states other than those bordering on Germany might be preparing to permit the construction of German "logistical establishments."

Spain was understood to be one of the states under consideration, although some thought also might be given to negotiations with Norway, an informed source added.

Britain is opposed to any West German military facilities in Spain, reliable informants said.

Phone Profit Up, Spending Plan Set

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Telephone Co. will spend about $50,000,000 on expansion and improvements of its service in 1960, president C. H. McLean said here Tuesday in the firm's annual report. He said net profit for 1959 was $6,672,300, up more than two million from 1958.

Income Tax Crackdown

Toronto Tax Dodgers Face $247,000 in Fines

Ex-MLA Assessed $9,000

TORONTO (CP) — Car dealer John C. Cragg was fined $178,000 Tuesday on charges of income tax evasion and ordered to pay the money within a month or go to penitentiary for 14 years.

Cragg, two other businessmen and five land firms who pleaded guilty to the charges two weeks ago were fined a total of $247,000 for tax evasions totalling $246,270.

Harold Fishleigh, former Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Toronto-Woodbine, was fined $9,000 or one year for evading $8,600 in taxes in 1954.

James J. Walsh was fined $2,500 or six months for evading $2,433 in taxes in 1956.

The three men were directors of several real estate firms in metropolitan Toronto.

Special prosecutor Ben Grossberg said the evasions were "deliberate and calculated."

Other charges against the five land firms were remanded to March 16. In the charges heard Tuesday the firms were accused of failing to record cash payments and receiving "kickbacks" from road development companies.

On Election

'Don't Fence Me In' —Bennett

"Don't fence me in," Premier Bennett told reporters at a press conference yesterday when they continued to press for some indication when an election would be held.

"Just because people love this budget, doesn't mean we will call an election," he said.

"My feelings are still 50-50 for this year or next. You can take it from that there will be no early election," he said.

Asked what early meant, the premier's executive assistant Dan Ekman said "tomorrow." This raised a laugh from the premier and no denial.

The premier said he would consider May early . . . "That doesn't mean that June isn't early as well," the premier laughed.

He said the increased homeowner grant will still be the No. 1 election issue.

He said he took Mr. Strachan's policy reversal in favor of the grant as "a big compliment."

"No one will have any excuse to vote CCF or Liberal," the premier said. "The Socreds are entitled to the vote, because they brought it in."

He said that "as people understand our policies they are more and more for us."

Bennett Well But Views From Afar

Premier Bennett appeared in excellent health when he dropped into his office yesterday for a brief period of work and a press conference.

"I am getting a great kick out of statements in the legislature," said the premier, who has been away since a kidney operation just before the session opened.

"You see things from a different angle when you are away from it all. . . . You get a broader approach," he said.

St. Vitus Patron For U.S.?

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of New York said Tuesday the patron saint of the United States should be St. Vitus.

"The prevailing American malady, especially in the leadership group, is tension," Dr. Peale said in a speech to the Inland Daily Press Association.

"We are nervous and high strung. We try to solve our problems not by cool thought but by emotionalism."

'Race Friction' Kills Show

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A Lutheran minister yesterday said he called off a scheduled minstrel show here "because we don't want any race friction."

Engineer

Fraser Project Pressed

CHILLIWACK (CP) — A University of British Columbia professor is still advocating an all-but-forgotten suggestion for a dam on the Fraser River at Moran, 170 miles northeast of Vancouver.

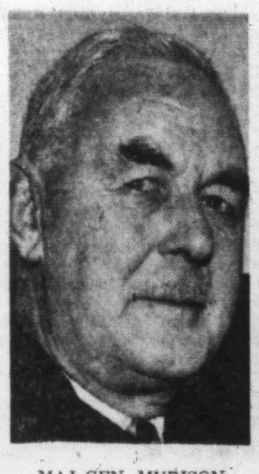

Dr. H. B. Warren, professor of geological engineering, said at the annual meeting of the Chilliwack Board of Trade Monday night "every single engineer I know prefers development of the Moran dam to the Peace or Columbia River projects."

The $500,000,000 proposal was spiked in 1957 because of protests that the dam would destroy the river as the prime source of B.C. sockeye salmon.

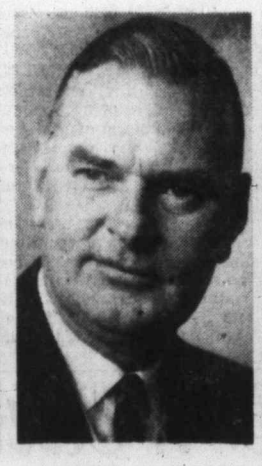

Dr. Warren said the Fraser could be tamed for all time with a series of high dams in its upper reaches.

He said 100,000 acres of irrigable land could be developed by water pumped with "cheaper electric energy rates."

He said fisheries representatives remained firmly against the dam "even when backers of the Moran project offered to spend a large amount to provide access for sockeye salmon."

Affectionate Welcome to Ike Offsets Diplomatic Mixups

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI)—Thousands of excited Brazilians surged around President Eisenhower and tried to embrace him yesterday in an outburst of affection that overcame a series of diplomatic mixups which almost marred the start of his "hemispheric crusade" of friendship.

Neither rain that turned the raw earth of this half-built future Brazilian capital into rivers of red mud nor wind that blew smoke into Eisenhower's face could dim the wild welcome by Brasilia's 71,000 people, mostly construction workers, to Eisenhower and his new program of aid for under-developed Latin American nations.

From the airport to the centre of the modernistic-styled city being built in the jungle wilderness, people broke through police lines and screamed "viva" at the smiling, arm waving Eisenhower.

Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek, angered and embarrassed by the fact he was late and kept Eisenhower waiting 10 minutes, had his mood dispelled by the laughing, happy American chief executive.

Before his arrival Eisenhower and Kubitschek already had agreed on a "declaration of Brasilia," a four-point, program of U.S.-Latin American friendship and mutual aid.

Mboya Asks Canada To Boycott Africa

TORONTO (CP) — African leader Tom Mboya of Kenya suggested yesterday that Canada and other Commonwealth countries should join the boycott of South African goods being organized by the Labor party in England.

"South Africa should feel the moral pressure from close friends, rather than from her old and natural enemies," he told a press conference here.

He said Canada should have taken a more positive stand in the United Nations against apartheid.

Toughest Teaching Post Attracts 150 UBC Bids

VANCOUVER (CP) — The toughest teaching job in Canada has attracted 150 applicants from the University of British Columbia for six available positions.

Frontier College is offering summer employment for laborer-teachers in backwoods mines, construction and logging camps.

The men must be equally familiar with the fine points of Shakespeare and the working end of a shovel.

Their teaching is done at night following a full day's work alongside their students.

The teachers will receive the going wage for their laboring jobs and a small bonus from Frontier College.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

ONE day soon I'm going to take my two little sons to meet an old seaman.

Before we get to his house, I'll tell them: "Listen carefully to what he says, boys. He's one of the men who worked in the sailing ships. He pulled on wet ropes, and climbed up in the rigging to furl the sails, and he had dirty old biscuits and salt pork for his dinner.

"In a sailing ship, they'd be away for a long time—maybe three years. Listen to this man, and remember him. When you grow up, there won't be any men like him left in the world."

* * *

I also want the boys to meet a cowboy who drove longhorn cattle in the rough frontier days of the American southwest; and a pioneer farmer of Canada, who cleared bush with his own hands, built his cabin, shot his own meat in the wilderness, plowed virgin grass, and sat down in a rough-hewn chair to read a book by the light of a candle.

I would like them to see some of the Indian dances that still mean something, and hear the old people tell the stories that they got from their grandfathers and uncles, about the sort of country it was before the white men came.

I want the boys to talk with the pilot of a stern-wheel Yukon riverboat, and an engineer who drove a steam locomotive.

* * *

As for me, I never saw a harbor full of sails, or buffalo bones on the prairie. But there are men alive who did. Children should talk to them, and learn that yesterday was a real, exciting time, full of real people.

Boys and girls need the old-timers to show them that history is not merely words in a book or pictures on a screen, but a stream of events that runs right through the house where they live.

Runs Along Iron Curtain

NATO Gets 'DEW' Line

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Western powers are constructing an unprecedented electronic alarm system along the Iron Curtain which probably will be directly connected with the North American protective network, it was learned Tuesday.

This eventually would mean a surprise-attack warning system extending from the North Pacific Ocean across Canada and the top of the world and down to Turkey.

The system, Ace High, is being built by nine NATO nations and already is half completed. It will cost more than $75,000,000 and will extend 8,845 miles from Norway to Turkey.

The North American systems are the DEW line across northern Canada, the BMEWS line almost parallel and to the south and Pole Vault, connecting the two.

Constructing Ace High, which will start 530 miles north of the Arctic Circle, are Norway, Denmark, West Germany, England, Belgium, France, Italy, Greece and Turkey.

Interconnection with Ace High will permit the Pentagon, the White House and NATO headquarters to receive word almost simultaneously of an impending or actual attack.

Connection is available also, on an instantaneous basis, with all missile bases in the United States.

German arms manufacturer Alfried Krupp is building the antennas for the system.

Fighting Follows 'Sitdown'

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) -A lunch counter "sit-down" protest by Negro high school students yesterday erupted into fighting among a "pushing, shoving" crowd of 2,000 that blocked traffic in downtown Chattanooga for half an hour.

Two persons, a Negro man and a white youth, were hospitalized and a dozen persons arrested on disorderly conduct charges before police could disperse the crowd.

MOST SERIOUS

The incident appeared to be one of the most serious in the south's wave of mostly spontaneous Negro student protest demonstrations against lunch counter segregation.

The melee, touched off when some 500 white persons heckled about 200 Negro demonstrators at the Kress dime store, began as "pushing and shoving" inside between white and Negro teenagers inside the store. The crowd moved outside the store when several fights broke out.

Joined by office and department store workers getting off work, the crowd soon swelled to some 2,000, police said.

In Supreme Court

Legal Record Set By 88-Year-Old

OTTAWA (CP) — An erect, firm-spoken octogenarian appeared before the Supreme Court of Canada Tuesday as counsel for a union in a legal battle with the town of Summerside, P.E.I.

Appearance of Charlottetown lawyer W. C. Bentley in his old-fashioned vest, coat and gown was a memorable occasion for the court and the legal profession.

Mr. Bentley, who will be 88 next Oct. 23, is the oldest lawyer ever to argue a case before Canada's highest court. He was born five years after Confederation in 1867, one year before his native province entered union in 1873, and has been practising law for 63 years.

Mr. Bentley appeared for Local 1432 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

It is contesting a judgment of the P.E.I. Appeal Court ruling that the province's Trade Union Act does not oblige Summerside to bargain with the union on wages, salaries and dismissals.

Nuclear Ruling Won't Change

OTTAWA (CP) — Decision to locate Canada's second nuclear research centre on the Winnipeg River will not be changed, government officials said Tuesday.

From U.S.

Ottawa to Halt Fruit Dumping

OTTAWA (CP) — The government moved Tuesday to protect Canadian fruit and vegetable growers against an influx of low-priced U.S. produce at the start of the Canadian growing season.

Revenue Minister Nowlan said the government had brought into force a section of the Customs Act aimed at imports of fresh fruits and vegetables entering Canada at below-normal prices.

The section allows the revenue department to set a valuation for duty purposes on such produce at the average import price during the preceding three years.

Mr. Nowlan indicated the step is a precautionary one to arm the government with standby powers in case they are needed later this year.

Canadian officials said the U.S. government was given advance notice of the move, and that the American concern over the law expressed in 1958, when it was passed, is much less now. One official said that in practice the section will cause little trouble for U.S. growers.

Meter Law Loophole Doesn't Apply Here

An Ontario legal precedent which may end routine ticketing of cars for parking meter violations in Peterboro, Ont., is not likely to bring relief to Victorians.

But it was nice to dream, agreed city solicitor T. P. O'Grady, who quickly pointed out that B.C. legislators long ago plugged just the kind of loophole which made the Ontario ruling possible.

DRIVERS, OWNERS

Ontario law gives municipalities the right to pass bylaws requiring automobile drivers to use meters, but Peterboro, and probably a number of other Ontario centres, passed bylaws requiring owners to use meters.

Upon this fine distinction a Peterboro county court judge held that the Peterboro bylaw was illegal and that the owner of a vehicle cannot be held responsible for meter violations unless it can be proved that he was the driver.

AMBUSH NEEDED

Meter enforcement officers would not simply be allowed to slip the abhorrent slips under a windshield wiper and carry on, they would have to ambush the driver on his return to the vehicle.

Mr. O'Grady explained that one section of the B.C. Motor Vehicle Act follows the Ontario legislation in that it authorizes councils to pass bylaws requiring meter use by drivers rather than owners, but another section dealing with "vicarious liability" puts the responsibility on owners.

The Peterboro judgment came at the conclusion of one man's eight-month legal battle to beat a $1 fine.

Road Users Probe Ends City Hearing

The royal commission on road users yesterday wound up two-day hearings in Victoria.

Hearings are scheduled to reopen Thursday in Vancouver public library and continue there until Friday. Time and place of further hearings in other provincial centres will be set in the next few days.

A spokesman for the royal commission said requests for hearings are piling up and it is probable that even more submissions will be heard than in the previous inquiry.

Final brief presented at yesterday's commission hearings in Victoria courthouse was from the Automotive Transport Association of B.C.

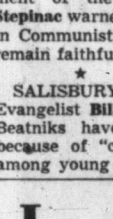

Association president H. M. Hartley told the commission lack of reciprocal agreements permitting interprovincial and international trucking operations at reduced licence fees is discouraging the entry of "foreign" vehicles into B.C.

He said several "substantial" U.S. companies operating larger-than-average fleets have indicated their intention to discontinue service into B.C. "unless there is an indication of change to their advantage in the future."

U.S. Offers New A-Plan

GENEVA (UPI)—The U.S. yesterday presented a shortened draft proposal for international control of peaceful nuclear explosions. It would guarantee that no nation could use such blasts for military purposes.

Russian delegate Semyon Tsarapkin declined comment on the new plan.

Publishers Who 'Alter' Classics Lashed by School Trustee

TORONTO (CP) — A school trustee in suburban Scarborough Monday night criticized publishers who alter words in the works of major poets.

Mrs. Murial Clarke told the township board of education many publishers had been attempting to simplify passages they thought public school children didn't understand."

"Mrs. Clarke said she found that in Robert Louis Stevenson's My Shadow, printed in a grade three reader, the word "arrant" had been changed to "downright."

"This isn't an isolated instance," she said. "There are many others just as bad."

A school superintendent said the practice was carried out in many books right through high school. He added that Shakespeare's work often was changed.

Mrs. Clarke asked that such books be banned from Scarborough schools.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dynamite explosion set off by a dry cell battery was blamed Tuesday for the airliner tragedy which killed a heavily-insured New York lawyer and 33 others in North Carolina Jan. 6.

The finding was reported by James R. Durfee, chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board. He told the Senate aviation sub-committee the explosion occurred near a seat occupied by Julian Frank, who carried insurance policies of about $1,000,000.

UNDER INVESTIGATION

Durfee added that questions "which relate to possible criminal charges are still under investigation" and the C.A.B. was not at this time making a formal determination of probable cause.

The FBI said in response to an inquiry that it still is investigating the accident. Officials declined comment on Durfee's testimony.

CONSPIRACY

Senator Warren G. Magnuson, Democrat of Washington, told a reporter that Durfee's testimony about criminal angles suggested to him that the explosion may have resulted from a conspiracy by two or more persons.

Durfee asked the subcommittee not to raise any matters about criminality in questioning him or his aides because criminal detection is outside the C.A.B.'s province.

Commonwealth

Decision South Africa's

CAPETOWN (Reuters) —Prof. Geoffrey Davies, associate professor in international relations and assistant to the president of the University of B.C., said Monday that South Africa has every right to decide whether she wants to remain within the Commonwealth or not.

He was replying to questions after a lecture.

"The basic position which any country must adopt is that the decision to remain within the Commonwealth or leave it is a matter for citizens of that country to decide," he said. "You have every right to decide and this right must be respected.

"I hope, however, your decision will be to remain within the Commonwealth because no one likes losing partners. We will respect your wishes."

Asked what attitude Canada would take if South Africa became a republic, Davies said:

"It would . . . be illogical for us to object to South Africa as a republic remaining a member of the Commonwealth when we allowed India to do so."

Licence Violator Sharply Rebuked By Magistrate

Violation of a driver's licence restriction permitting only business driving drew a sharp rebuke for a 19-year-old youth in Saanich police court yesterday.

James M. Longland, 1386 Hastings, pleaded guilty to charges of careless driving, and being a minor in possession of liquor.

Prosecutor Kenneth Murphy informed Magistrate William Ostler that accused had been restricted last September to driving for business only for six months.

HUNDREDS OF TIMES

When checked at the time the careless driving charge was laid, he told police he had driven for other than business purposes "hundreds of times."

He had also been convicted on a similar liquor possession charge last Dec. 29, court was told.

"When you break your word, given to the court, as flagrantly as this," said Magistrate Ostler, "you make a mockery of the whole system of licence restriction.

COMPLETE CONTEMPT

"Such restrictions are given, after careful consideration, only to deserving drivers whose livelihood might otherwise be denied to them. By your attitude you have shown complete contempt for the restriction."

Longland was fined $40 for careless driving, $25 for the possession charge, and his licence was suspended.

Michael Richard Cole, 18, of 2745 Scott, was fined $20 for being a minor in possession of liquor, and $50 for supplying liquor to a minor.

Heaney's Cartage & Storage Ltd., 521 Bastion, pleaded guilty to a charge of moving a dwelling-house in Saanich without having a permit to do so, and was fined $20.

'Washing-Machine' Satellite Unveiled

OTTAWA (CP) — The Defence Research Board yesterday unveiled a mock-up of Canada's "washing-machine" satellite scheduled to be put into orbit by the United States in November, 1961.

The 200-pound aluminum and fiberglas satellite is expected to operate for a year studying the top side of the electrically-charged ionospheric belt above the earth. It will orbit at 18,000 miles an hour 700 miles above the earth.

THREE-STAGE THOR

The satellite will be launched by a three-stage Thor-Delta rocket from the U.S. Air Force base at Vandenberg, Calif. In case of initial rocket failure, Defence Research Board scientists are making a spare satellite.

The satellite looks like an old-fashioned washing machine.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two hundred and twenty-two oil workers have agreed to remove one cent from their wage demands for each cent their employer reduces the price of fuel oil, providing the company's gasoline is also sold at below the current average price.

The Shell unit of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union is demanding a 24-cent-an-hour, across-the-board increase over a base rate of $2.40.

The unit voted to reduce its demand by one cent for every cent a gallon the Shell Oil Co. reduces the price of stove and furnace oil, providing the firm agrees to hold the price of regular gasoline at 31.9 cents a gallon and 36.9 cents for premium.

Regular gasoline now is selling at between 33.9 cents and 35.9 cents during a price war here.

A union spokesman said the 31.9 figure is price of non-brand gasoline sold at independent service stations.

Condemned Without Trial

THE action of the British Columbia government in setting up a board of reference to hear provincial civic service grievances appears to go as far as a government should go in the surrender of authority over its own staff. Notwithstanding the immediate objections of the general secretary of the employees' association, the appointment of this three-man board appears to be a fair and practicable arrangement for the settlement of differences between the government and the civil service.

This development in relationships between employer and employees' organization creates something hitherto lacking: an independent tribunal to mediate and, within necessary limitations, render decisions when the two sides find they cannot agree. The accent should be on the word "independent"—again in spite of Mr. O'Connor's objection. For him even to hint that Dr. Hugh Keenleyside might be incapable of impartiality simply because he performs other duties for the province is both absurd and uncalled for. The association should be grateful for the fact that a man like Dr. Keenleyside will occupy the chair.

The limitations placed on items on which the board of reference shall have power to make binding decisions may annoy Mr. O'Connor, the association's paid organizer, but they are in keeping with parliamentary practice and the principle of sovereignty. No one or no body outside the government may initiate measures for the expenditure of public money. If the government were to permit some other body to decide civil service salary scales it would thereby be permitting outsiders to determine budgetary matters.

Since the association has not been granted all that it had demanded it is only natural that there should be some dissatisfaction. It would be more reasonable, however, and would do more to inspire public confidence in the motives of the civil servants' union, if this change of policy had been accepted as an advance and allowed a fair trial in operation.

Back to the Professionals

GREAT BRITAIN is cutting 56,000 men off its army roll in a progressive return to a professional military force. Next year the numbers will be further reduced, and the final aim is a highly-trained army of 180,000 men by 1963. In view of the world situation that is a small force to maintain, and in this sense is a measure of disarmament.

It is not purely a matter of budget saving, however. Higher rates of pay now going into effect will mean a raise in costs for ground forces over last year. The reduction of personnel, a process begun last year, is an admission that national service has not been a success. The compulsory recruitment introduced some years ago to bolster defence, commendable in theory, has not returned the fruits expected.

The long-held view that one volunteer is worth two pressed men has been sustained, for peacetime at least. In war the situation is different; the urge then is all-embracing, and once in uniform men become alike in their dedication. No such enthusiasm has followed postwar national service in Britain nor, one fancies, in other countries long used to volunteer recruitment.

Far from taking to their roles with gusto the two-year national service men have in many instances simply put in time. They have not reacted with interest to tasks which they know are only temporary and foreign to the personal careers they have in mind. Efficiency has suffered as a result, and regiments are turning with relief to the thought of an army composed of men who join up because they want to be soldiers.

The British army of the future therefore will hold to the pattern of its earlier days, that of a highly-trained professional force ready for sudden call and upon which expansion can be based in event of a national emergency. That is the policy of the Canadian Army, and this postwar British experiment has confirmed its wisdom.

Jumping It Up

WHEN the Greater Victoria Water Board announced it would increase its base rate on bulk water to the municipalities by 30 per cent to cover costs of capital construction ahead, it became evident that the municipalities would have to hand on the extra charge in one form or another. Victoria City's proposal, which would affect Esquimalt water subscribers also, is now moving forward in the committee stage. It would involve an immediate boost in industrial and domestic water rates, in service charges falling on users, and in the cost of water connections in varying dimensions at the property line.

The suggested city increase, however, starts at 41 per cent on water at the tap level, and with attendant service and connection charges appears at points to reach the 50 per cent mark. This, it is explained, would give a 5 per cent return on the municipal investment with the new basic charge paid. If that were the only effect perhaps there would be nothing to do but adopt the new scheduling. Unfortunately the boost may not prove as simple as that. Home owners did not expect such a sharp advance in their bills in a single year. Summer irrigation of Victoria lawns may go into something of an eclipse. Industrial users of water in bulk will unexpectedly be faced with a formidable problem, and Victoria is looking for industry.

Before it assents to this three point remedy, involving such a sharp jump in cost on water users, would it not pay the City and the other municipalities to take up with the Greater Victoria Water Board the possibility of stretching out the sudden advance in the base rate in more gradual timing? The boost in the base rate from 10 to 13 cents per 1,000 gallons itself came with very little warning.

Radar Screen Questioned

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE decision to plant a towering radar station in the middle of the serene Yorkshire moors may create a stir in Britain. Apart from taking four square miles of a national park, there is a fairly firm belief in some quarters that it is worth virtually nothing to the country.

When it was announced in Parliament last week, Air Minister George Ward assured members that the £43,000,000 missile-spotting station would assume paramount importance in Western defences.

But despite its long range—the exact distance has not been disclosed—there is strong scientific belief that Britain will still not get more than five minutes' warning of a missile attack. For this, the country will pay £8,000,000 toward the cost of the station.

* * *

The United States will get at least 15 minutes' warning from the radar screen that will be the size of a football field. Its share will be £35,000,000.

Ward had barely made his announcement when he felt the first blast of the Opposition winds. Emanuel Shinwell, sharp-spoken former Labor defence minister, asked if "we are going to become a colony of the United States?"

In an equally biting tone, Labor's chief defence spokesman, George Brown, said the station will give Britons just enough warning of impending attack to say "cheerio chaps."

Reports around Westminster say the Labor party is planning a sharp offensive against the radar station during the debate on defence.

* * *

There is some feeling in defence circles that any value the station may have now will be outdated by the time it is operational in 1963.

Some suggest that the DEW line is an example of an efficient defence system being overtaken by missiles between its beginning and completion; and they say that if missile development continues at the same speed during the next three years the Yorkshire station may be in the same position.

Ward might have been implying a somewhat limited life for the station when he told Parliament that the minute it becomes unnecessary, buildings will be torn down and parkland restored.

IT is an awfully queer habit and 'twere better not to have it, but Bulwer-Lytton said that the man who smokes thinks like a sage and acts like a Samaritan.

I wish I could believe him, and thinking of Hitler one might. The late unlamented Der Fuhrer did not smoke at all, pipe, cigaret or cigar, and he was certainly no Samaritan.

Stalin smoked, however, if that has serious connotation.

Another celebrity had a word to say about tobacco, du Maurier the creator of Trilby, to wit: "The wretcheder one is the more one smokes; and the more one smokes the wretcheder one gets. A vicious circle."

It's a circle all right, but not that wretched.

Bigwigs know no more of this subject than you do yourself, however, assuming you to be a smoker. If you are not no doubt you've gazed with astonishment on the colossal amount of puffing that goes on.

I am an addict but it astonishes me too.

Recently, for fun, I totted up my lifetime consumption. It staggered me, albeit with surprise. Casually I assumed I must have made ash of millions of cigarets, whereas, counting carefully and not cheating, I am not near the half-million mark.

I will concede though that all that smoke put together would blacken the sky.

Gene Tunney once, in the superior mood common to non-smokers, said that tobacco shrinks the human frame and that no sensible being should let a whiff of it pass down his throat. One doubts the sensibility of having one's head punched off in the prize ring, but still and all he had something there.

Obviously the world is full of people who are not very sensible, however.

* * *

Few of us are as deeply-dyed as the East African Kavarondos, nevertheless. These well-favored brunettes smoke four cigarets at a time, I believe, one in each corner of the mouth and one in each nostril. I have met a few adept smokers in my day, modestly excluding myself, but never one who could match such virtuosity.

Sometimes a movie star will light two cigarets at once and give one to his feminine partner, but that's no competition for the Kavarondos. He is merely currying favor with his companion.

These idle thoughts stem from the fact I was reading about a book on how to stop smoking. It is, I gather, a knockout. Book reviewers have given it rave notices; two-packs-a-day men have been cured overnight. Undoubtedly I should read the book itself, myself.

* * *

Du Maurier's circle, for instance. I have just lit another cigaret to keep this opus in flood, all because I think if I do not smoke I shall not think, and because I think I shall not think, I cannot think.

Very confusing, but fossick around a bit and you'll see what I mean.

Strangely, too, a smoker goes to church, a concert or a movie and never feels the urge to smoke—because it is forbidden. It is all in the mind, you see, and not an inhalation at all.

And yet there is the story of the attorney-general of the state of Virginia—where our Virginia cigarets do not come from—who snorted out loud when it was proposed to establish a college in his home town, not only to promote learning but to save souls.

"Souls," he cried. "Damn your souls; make tobacco."

Were he living now he'd make a fortune on TV.

Letter from London

Normality Is Not for Royalty

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

NOW that the tumult and the shouting are beginning to fade away following the historically interesting first royal birth to a reigning monarch for more than a hundred years, there remains the illuminating conjecture about the pattern of monarchy in the changing world.

No doubt a royal child has many material advantages, but there are many handicaps — frequently overlooked by people who regard royalty as a kind of inherited sinecure. We have seen that Prince Philip is most anxious to provide a "normal" upbringing — normal in this case being attendance at school instead of being educated at home — but even that is beset with problems.

* * *

The main problems are the inquisitive public and the inquisitive newspaper reporter. A prince or a princess still retains an aura of glamor. The public respond gloriously to the slightest tit-bit and consequently "normal" education tends to become abnormal for this very reason. Other small boys and girls whose purpose is to instil this atmosphere of normality find themselves in a position of exceptional advantage to make a fast buck. If the royal youngster grazes a knee it would be worth a couple of dollars on any reporter's expense sheet. If perchance he cuffed or was cuffed it would be worth a great deal more. And there have been times when the road to royal normality has been strewn with dangers of this sort.

Indeed the lot of a royal child is a difficult one from birth.

It is a constant battle to preserve a sense of normality in wholly abnormal conditions. For all practical purposes life has to be lived under the microscope of public examination. Unlike film stars who only have to provide glamor at public appearances, royalty is expected to provide glamor, intelligence and a high sense of moral purpose. Indeed it has been said that Buckingham Palace is the most comfortable prison in the world.

* * *

There is more in that analogy than meets the eye. No one is allowed out except in company with a warder in the person of a senior detective from Scotland Yard. A ride on a bus or an underground train has to be arranged far in advance and has something of the attractiveness for a royal child that a ride in a royal car would have for any other child. The usual assumes a fabulous air, the unusual is traditional. Protocol is a worldly faith by which royalty lives. Its chains are rigid.

Things have changed, of course, and no doubt they will go on changing. It is now almost usual for ordinary mortals to take a half-day off work to attend a Buckingham Palace garden party. It would not be surprising if you found yourself two or three seats away from royalty in a theatre (they now patronize the stalls), and it is not unusual to find royalty shopping without the store being closed to the general public. But there remains a consciousness about this sort of abnormality which must be distressing to the participants. After all, the Queen would not visit a show which had not been "vetted" and she would be unlikely to visit a store without some clear indication of what it was she wished to purchase.

* * *

Despite the trends the fact remains that the new royal baby has been born into a royal prison with no release probable. A life of rigid discipline lies ahead—the sort of life that very few of us would care to adopt. Public personalities rise and fade, but there is no chance for royalty.

Spare a thought for the royal prisoner. No matter what he wants to do the answer is "no" unless it is in the line of duty; from the moment of birth to the royal funeral the spotlight is on all the way.

The really startling thing is that in fact royalty does manage to acquire an easy grace and knowledge of normal things. They have been helped, of course, by radio and television, which bring the common herd within the palace walls without offending protocol—but for them, everything is an occasion.

It helps, of course, to be brought up to it from birth. It helps not to need money. But it must hurt when once in a while you want to kick over the traces. Few will envy royalty. A president may have a tougher time while it lasts, but at least he knows that his term of service has an ending.

Refugee Challenge

Surely We Can Do Better

(From The Toronto Globe and Mail)

AUSTRALIAN Immigration Minister Downer announces that since 1946 his country had accepted almost 250,000 refugees. Now, as its contribution to World Refugee Year, it proposes to bring in 6,000 more during 1960 — twice Australia's normal annual intake in this category.

* * *

How do Canada's efforts compare with this? Our immigration statistics do not always distinguish between refugees and ordinary immigrants, so that an exact comparison is impossible. However, in a speech at Hamilton last November Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough gave the number of persons officially classified as refugees who entered Canada from 1946 to the end of 1958 as 230,948.

This general total includes, among others, the "displaced persons" of the post-war years, the Polish veterans, and the exiles from Hungary after the 1956 revolution. In addition, Mrs. Fairclough stated that "many thousands" of persons who were actually refugees had entered under other classifications.

Perhaps it would be safe to put the total number admitted to Canada at about 250,000. This is approximately the Australian figure, but it should be remembered that Australia's population is around 10,000,000, while that of Canada approaches 18,000,000. If Canada had accepted refugees on the same scale as Australia, our total would now be in the neighborhood of 375,000.

It is when we compare the respective contributions the two countries are making to World Refugee Year that we have cause for real embarrassment. Australia is prepared to bring in 6,000 during the year. The Canadian government's contribution to date has been the movement of 100 tubercular families—perhaps 400 persons in all—from the European camps to new homes and new hopes in Canada.

This is a good beginning, but it should be only a beginning. Unfortunately, the Dominion government seems content to rest on its oars and leave any further movements to be financed by the provinces or by the citizens. Private organizations and individuals are anxious to help—indeed World Refugee Year has received a tremendous response across the country—but they get very little encouragement from the Immigration Department. As the months pass, the danger is growing that our contribution to World Refugee Year will be only a token one.

* * *

Our 400 arrivals contrast miserably not merely with what Australia has undertaken to do but with the actions of some European countries. Norway, for example, is going to accept 1,400 handicapped refugees, while Belgium—one of the most overcrowded countries in the world—is preparing to resettle 3,000.

Surely we can do better than this! With its size, its wealth, its small population and its chronic labor shortages, Canada is in a better position than any other nation to take the lead in solving the refugee problem. We should be marching at the head of the procession, not crawling at the rear.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

ONE of my friends who uses liquor the way he uses Worcestershire sauce or ketchup, which is to add a fillip to his days as to his meals, was lately ordered by his doctor to cut out liquor entirely. He was gaining weight to a point that his doctor thought was dangerous to his heart.

"Your drinks, though moderate," said the doctor, "increase your appetite. It is what you eat that is fattening you."

So my friend, a most moderate drinker for more than 30 years, proceeded to go on the wagon. But a curious thing happened. He would go for a week or ten days without the couple of snorts he had been accustomed, for years, to imbibe before dinner. And then, all of a sudden, he would feel the need of a boost. And thus, one day a week or so, he would give himself a party. On those occasions, he became an immoderate drinker.

"Making up your mind," said the doctor, whom he went to see, "whether with regard to food, or drink, or smoking, or any of the things we medical men have to advise on, is like slamming a door. It is not like walking into an adjoining room, leaving the door open. No sir. To quit cigarettes or whiskey or fat pork you have to simply walk out and slam the door, bang!"

My friend has now been on the wagon 40 days, and is down to 160, his legal weight.

Is It Legal?

I notice by this morning's (Feb. 23) paper that the Oak Bay council has granted the sum of $60,000 to the Victoria University building fund.

I beg to question the legality of this grant. Certainly no city or municipal council is empowered to spend money for capital school expenditure without first obtaining the consent of the taxpayers.

The Maple Leaf

Re the letter by Mr. Highfield captioned "Welding the Peoples": We could not be more in agreement with him in his description of the Union Jack. It is composed of the Crosses of St. George, St. Andrew and St. Patrick, he said. Union in the British Isles is what the Union Jack means. Except for the Cross of St. Patrick a more symbolic and appropriate flag for the British Isles would be difficult to imagine. All honor to it and its people.

But what is quite symbolic of Britain and which has such great meaning there, is not applicable in Canada. What would be applicable in Canada we entirely agree with Mr. Bonne is the maple leaf in our flag instead of the Union Jack. Further, we agree with him that we should, in his word, apply ourselves to the task of selecting a distinctive Canadian flag truly symbolic of this country only and no other.

We are nearly 20,000,000; the Gordon report expects us to be 40,000,000 Canadians before long. When that day comes how silly will we look without a distinctive Canadian flag?

Ask the Veterans

Re our really beautiful Canadian flag, under which so many of us served, fought, and bled for: the veterans should be asked first if they wanted it altered. The only justification would be to add a touch of the Tri-Color. Other nationals are glad and proud to accept it.

Returning from the First World War our train passed through a large Quebec town, plastered with the Tri-Color. The French flag was even flying over the city hall. Being in Canada again, this was a distinct shock to us westerners. When on the outskirts, a section man's wife appeared grasping the corners of a large Canadian flag and waving it to the four winds the boys' pent-up feelings burst loose, they nearly rocked the train over with their cheers and I'm sure the town heard a thousand voices giving expression. That is why there should be a touch of the Tri-Color.

Electricity Rates

In the B.C. Electric Company publication "The Buzzer" dated Feb. 8, the following statement appears: "Our industrial rates are substantially competitive with those in any Canadian or United States city and lower than most."

If this is true, why is it the householders in B.C. pay more than twice as much for electricity as homes in Eastern Canada? Does it mean that the householders in B.C. are subsidizing the low rates for industry?

I enclose an Ottawa Hydro bill for January and February, 1958, which shows my charges for 1380 KWH were $9.56, whereas my bill from the B.C. Electric for January 1960, for 574 KWH, was $12.52.

In Ontario, householders are billed once every two months, so that you benefit by only paying the higher rate on the first 60 KWH over a two-month period. In B.C. we pay the higher rate every month.

Why does not the B.C. Electric Company adopt this policy and pass the savings in overhead to the consumer? We receive water bills once every two months, why not electricity?

City Rotary Will Mark Club's 55th Anniversary

The Rotary Club of Victoria, at its Thursday noon meeting in the Empress Hotel, will commemorate the 55th anniversary of the founding of Rotary.

Gordon Brown will speak on the growth of the international service organization from the group of businessmen who met in Chicago Feb. 23, 1905, to its present membership of nearly 500,000 on six continents.

Founder of Rotary was Paul Harris, a Chicago lawyer, who became first president of the national body and then first president of Rotary International. He died in 1947. Some 10,000 Rotary clubs have been formed in 115 countries.

This week similar celebrations were held by Rotary clubs throughout Vancouver Island.

French Banks Get Warning

PARIS (Reuters)—Jacques Brunet new governor of the Bank of France, Tuesday asked French commercial banks to be cautious in granting credit advances.

In a letter to the French Bankers' Association, he reminded bankers that credit advances have risen sharply recently, increasing by 13 per cent above the normal level in the last quarter of 1959.

Banking quarters considered his invitation to prudence was a warning that credit restrictions would be introduced unless there was voluntary restraint.

Big Ben Tilt Is 15 Inches

LONDON (Reuters)—The government admitted Tuesday that Big Ben, towering 320 feet over the Houses of Parliament, leans 15 inches from the vertical.

Although a close watch is being kept, there is no cause for concern about the safety of the tower, Works Minister Lord John Hope told Parliament.

Hollywood's magic era was the carefree 20's when frozen-faced Buster Keaton helped create the Golden Age of Comedy with his friends Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle and the Keystone Cops.

Keaton and Arbuckle used to amuse themselves after working hours by playing elaborate, carefully-plotted practical jokes. Buster tells of one of the most famous they ever pulled, in "My Wonderful World of Slapstick."

ANNUAL TRIP

The comedians read that Arbuckle's new boss, Adolph Zukor, was about to make his annual inspection trip to Hollywood. Arbuckle promptly wired Zukor an invitation to dine with him and friends at his home on his first night there. Zukor accepted.

Keaton was cast as the butler. They relied on the theory that no one really looks at butlers.

ALL WRONG

When the big night arrived, Keaton did everything wrong. He spilled the soup over himself, dropped knives and forks and forgot to serve ice water. Arbuckle acted furious and periodically dragged his "butler" to the kitchen, bawling him out in a loud voice.

Zukor was sympathetic. He didn't eat soup anyway, he told his harassed host. He said the servant problem was just as bad in the East.

TURKEY TROT

Finally Keaton carried in a 24-pound turkey on a tray. At the pantry door he dropped his service napkin. As he bent over to retrieve it, Roscoe's trainer pushed the pantry door, hitting Buster on the backside and propelling him and the turkey into the dining room. Covered with gravy, Buster got to his feet, and began trying to brush off the crushed and battered turkey with his napkin. Gurgling with fury, Arbuckle seized him by the neck and dragged him off to the kitchen.

RACED AROUND

Once the door was shut, Buster raced around the house to the front door, slipped upstairs, cleaned himself off and got into a natty suit. He telephoned Arbuckle at the dinner table, pretending to be at home, and Arbuckle told him to hurry and join them for dessert. Arbuckle then told Zukor, "That was the little fellow who's been working in my pictures. I'm sure you'll want to meet him."

ODD PART

Keaton crept out of the house, then rang the doorbell. On joining the party, he was introduced to the several guests from the East and seated next to one of them, who said, "You should have been here earlier, Keaton. We had the damnedest waiter you ever saw." Then he gave Buster an appraising look. "The odd part is that he looked very much like you."

That caused Zukor to scrutinize Keaton more closely. Then he got it, but he took it deadpan. "Very clever boys, very clever!" he said in an even tone.

A $150,000 program to stimulate demand for B.C. farm products will start March 21, Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy told the legislature yesterday.

The program will feature advertising in 101 B.C. newspapers plus billboards, fair displays, store exhibits, restaurant specials and a recipe service.

FINEST ICE CREAM

Themes will be: preserve B.C. fruits at season's peak; drink B.C. milk every day; B.C. ice cream, finest in the world; B.C. turkey can make you famous for your cooking.

Sample advertisements shown by Mr. Steacy did not contain pictures of Premier Bennett as did displays in the 1956 election year, last time B.C. staged a farm products campaign.

★ ★ ★

Ottawa action yesterday took the sting out of a charge by Mr. Steacy.

He said Commons had passed a bill to protect producers of fruits and vegetables from unfair U.S. selling practices—but the bill's important sections had not been passed. As he made the charge, the sections were being proclaimed law.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Steacy said the 1959 Okanagan apple crop was the smallest since 1931 but things look better for 1960. He added the outlook for B.C.'s $119,000,000-a-year farm industry appears "at this point to be fair to good."

★ ★ ★

A message from Queen Elizabeth, read by Attorney-General Bonner, stated: "Please convey sincere thanks of my husband and myself to the members of the legislature of B.C. for kind congratulations and loyal assurances on the birth of our son."

Premier Bennett will not take blame or credit for proposed provincial flag.

"That was a resolution by a private member (Socred William Speare) passed unanimously at the last session," the premier said.

Film Actors To Strike March 7

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The Screen Actors' Guild announced yesterday it will call a strike against the motion picture industry March 7.

Executive secretary John Dales said the 14,000-member union would walk out in accordance with a vote taken last week authorizing guild executives to call a strike when they deemed it necessary.

Dale said the Association of Motion Picture Producers had been notified that the guild was breaking off negotiations.

Slim for Canada

Ladies' Day At Olympics

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) — Tuesday was ladies' day at the 1960 Winter Olympics, winding up with the dazzling free-skating spectacle that packed the main arena for the women's figure-skating finals.

Carol Heiss of the United States won the gold medal in a breeze—the first for the U.S. in these eighth games—to top off a day marked by a world-record-holding Russian girl's second gold medal performance and a spectacular thrill-and-spill-packed giant slalom ski race won by a pretty Swiss miss.

Miss Heiss had been regarded as a sure winner after she piled up a commanding lead in the preliminary compulsory figures in three previous days, with only the unlikely event of a fall standing between her and the Olympic title she promised her dying mother she would win.

REAL BATTLE

The real battle was for second and third places, between fellow American Barbara Roles and the European women's champion, Sjoukje Dyjkstra of The Netherlands. When the points were totalled in late afternoon, the Dutch girl had the silver medal.

Two young Canadians made good showings in the field of 26. Sandra Tewkesbury of Chatham, Ont., taking 10th place and 15-year-old Wendy Griner of Toronto 12th.

Russia's Lidija Skoblikova, a 21-year-old co-ed, came within half a second of a world record in the morning's women's 3,000-metre skating race, winning in five minutes, 14.3 sconds to take her second gold medal of the games. She won the 1,500-metre event last Saturday.

MORE POINTS

Teammate Valentina Stenina took second place in 5.16.9 to pile up more points for the Soviet Union, and Eevi Huttunen of Finland was the bronze medal winner in 5.21.0.

This race was marked by an unfortunate slip that may have cost Canada's Doreen Ryan a second or two—although both she and her coach said afterwards that it wouldn't have made any difference in her placing of 14th.

The procedure on the 400-metre ice track is to ring a bell to signal the skaters, as they race in paired heats, that they are entering the last lap. In Mrs. Ryan's heat the bell didn't sound, and to complicate matters an official held up the wrong lap card.

Thus the Edmonton housewife saved her finishing kick for an unnecessary lap and was timed for the 3,000-metre distance in only 5.39.7.

Skating coach Frank Stack of Winnipeg said: "I'm not protesting."

"Doreen might have skated one second faster if she had been given the bell at the start of the seventh lap, but even that wouldn't have changed her position. She skated as well as she's ever done."

SEVERAL TUMBLES

The women's giant slalom ski run down steep Papoose Mountain was featured by several spectacular tumbles as pretty Swiss secretary Yvonne Ruegg flashed to victory with a time of one minute, 39.9 seconds.

Miss Ruegg beat the favored American pair of Penny Pitou and Betsy Snite, who finished second and fourth with respective times of 1.40.1 and 1.40.4. Chenal Minuzzo of Italy won the bronze medal in 1.40.2.

All the winning times were close, resulting in a 12th placing for Ottawa's Anne Heggtveit who was carrying Canada's hopes for a point placing in the top six. Her time was a good 1.42.1, and the three girls immediately ahead of her were tied for ninth place. There was also another tie for fifth.

In the day's opening event, the 15-kilometre cross-country ski race, Clarence Servold of Camrose, Alta., who was a surprise second-place finisher over the same distance Monday in the Nordic combined, could make only 35th place as the north European specialists who had passed up the combined event returned to competition.

Sweden's king of skiing, Sixten Jernberg, who was out to add another gold medal to his victory last week in the 30 kilometres, was just nosed out by Norway's Hakon Brusveen who won in 51 minutes 56 seconds. Jernberg was timed in 51.58.6, with veteran Finn Veikko Hakulinen the bronze medal winner in 53.03.

Servold's time was 57.04—he had 58.49 when he placed second—and Irvin Servold, the other half of the Canadian brother entry, was 47th in 59.42.

The hockey championship tournament had an open date but in the consolation round the Japanese, putting on a "banzai" offensive in honor of their crown prince's new-born son, tied Finland 6-6.

CAROL HEISS
. . . "the snob"

★ ★ ★

Promise to Dying Mother Fulfilled by U.S. Skater

SQUAW VALLEY (UPI)—Two years ago Carol Heiss' mother was dying in Ozone Park, N.Y.

Tears streaming from her light brown eyes, Carol, then only 18, promised her:

"I'll win the Olympic gold medal in 1960."

She fulfilled that death-bed promise yesterday.

And now she hopes they won't call the baker's daughter "a snob" anymore.

The promise stemmed from Carol's defeat by Tenley Albright, her teammate, in the winter Olympics at Cortina, Italy in 1956.

Carol had won the 1956 world championship in Germany. Then she was upset by Tenley for the Oympic gold medal.

A year later, at St. Moritz, Switzerland, where Carol won the world championship again, she was branded "a snob" by some because she moved out of the hotel where the rest of the U.S. team was staying.

But the rest of that team didn't know that her mother was seriously ill at the time and that the room was too cold.

Carol went back to Ozone Park. Her mother's condition was worse.

That's when she made the promise. Shortly afterwards, her mother, only 42 years old, died.

She would have been proud if she could have seen her daughter yesterday. She had bundled her up before dawn for a decade to get to Madison Square Garden to practice.

The most thunderous applause that has rocked this Sierra Nevada valley echoed off the mountain sides when Carol completed her free skating figures. The capacity crowd of 8,000 in arena stood as one person and cheered.

Tears streamed down those light brown eyes again.

It isn't generally known, but Carol is in love—with another Olympic gold medal winner.

He's Hayes Alan Jenkins, who won the Olympic men's figure skating championship—back there in Cortina where Carol lost out.

In her greatest hour of triumph, Carol thought of her mother—and Hayes.

"Hayes had to stay back in Akron, O., because he is just starting to practice law," she explained. She said, too, that Hayes was busy with one other thing. He had spent his weekends going to Cleveland to help coach his brother, Dave.

So neither her mother nor her boy friend was there when she won yesterday.

But had they been, they would have been proud.

Cougars Defeat Flyers; Marcel Misses Shutout

EDMONTON — Goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier, who shares the Western Hockey League record for shutouts, has only two blankings to his credit so far this season but the Victoria veteran is coming close often enough.

	GP	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
Vancouver	58	36	16	6	182	137	78
Seattle	59	32	24	3	224	180	67

Calgary	58	24	33	1	192	194	49
Winnipeg	57	22	33	2	179	196	46
Spokane	59	18	39	2	172	264	38

Last night's scores: VICTORIA 3 at Edmonton 1; Seattle 2 at Vancouver 3.
Next games: VICTORIA at Calgary; Edmonton at Winnipeg.

The colorful French-Canadian was in top form again Tuesday night as the Cougars ended Edmonton Flyers' record home-ice win streak at 14 games with a 3-1 decision.

Pelletier lost his shutout at 6.20 of the third period while his teammates were engrossed in trying to add to their point totals during a penalty to Edmonton-forward Ed Diachuk. Penalty-killer Bob Solinger drove a hard shot past Pelletier from point-blank range after being set up by defenceman Hugh Coflin.

So, instead of his third shutout, Pelletier had to be satisfied with the knowledge that this was the 18th game he has held the opposition to one goal. The importance of his work is reflected in the statistics which show the Cougars have played three 1-1 ties, won by 2-1 five times and 3-1 four times.

Victory, third for the well-balanced Cougars in the five games they have played on the last of their two six-game tours of the Prairies, pushed them into a third-place tie with the Flyers and within one point of the second-place Seattle Totems.

It also boosted the Cougars 17 points ahead of the fifth-place Calgary Stampeders and the Victoria club now needs only four wins in its last 11 games to mathematically clinch a playoff spot.

Art Jones and Gordie Fashoway, centre and leftwinger, respectively, on the Cougars' most-potent line, led the way last night as each snared his 28th goal and added an assist.

Jones opened the scoring with an 18-foot drive after five minutes and Fashoway clicked from a goalmouth scramble at 11.26.

George Ford, also having a fine season, made it all but a cinch as he scored from another scramble midway through the second period. It was his 16th goal.

Cougars complete their trip tonight at Calgary, then head to the West Coast for a home-and-home weekend series with the leading Vancouver Canucks. Victoria is at Vancouver Friday, the Canucks at Victoria Saturday.

Victoria — Goal: Pelletier; defence: Wright, Blonda, Hay, Matthews; forwards: Ford, Haworth, Anderson, Goodwin, Macauley, Jones, Fashoway, Blackburn, Goyer, Prince.
Edmonton—Goal: Boisvert; defence: MacPherson, Coflin, Marcon, Strate; forwards: Dejordy, Holmes, Polle, Achtymichuk, Hynes, Diachuk, Labossiere, McNeill, Solinger.

Schmautz 'Assist' Help to Cougars

Arnie Schmautz, fiery little winger who suffered a fractured skull in a game in Winnipeg last week, earned an assist last night when Victoria Cougars bested Edmonton Flyers, 3-1, at Edmonton.

Just before the Cougars stepped on the ice they received a telegram sent by Schmautz which read: "Good luck. Feeling better. See you soon."

"It didn't hurt them (the Cougars) at all," manager-coach Hal Laycoe said after the game. "They went out and won it with those two goals in the first period.

Schmautz is recovering quickly from the injury and subsequent operation and is expected to return to Victoria within a week or 10 days.

Canucks Nip Totems To Stretch Margin

VANCOUVER — Colin Kilburn's goal early in the third period turned out to be the winner Tuesday night as Vancouver Canucks edged Seattle Totems 3-2 and extended their Western Hockey League lead to 11 points.

Kilburn, taking a pass from Orland Kurtenbach on the wrong side of the stick, fired a cross-hand shot past Seattle goalie Bev Bentley at 3.04 of the final period.

Other Vancouver scorers were Dave Duke and Gordon Vejprava while Tom McVie and Don Chiupka scored for Seattle.

Chiupka's goal at 15.24 of the third cut a 3-1 Canuck lead in half. Seattle yanked Bentley in the final minute but managed only one shot at goalie Hank Bassen of Vancouver.

FIRST PERIOD

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

If there is any doubt as to the growing popularity of golf in this district, a visit to the various clubs last weekend would have dispelled it.

Allowing for a bright warm weekend, the number of participants was remarkable, with the winter medal competition at Gorge attracting a record field of 48.

Also noted was the number of juniors—both boys and girls—who were playing, and this betokens a keen interest in the forthcoming annual junior tuition courses organized for those of high school age through the B.C. Golf Association and the Victoria District Committee.

The Junior Development Committee is this year in the capable hands of Kenny Lawson, a former B.C. Willingdon Cup player, and information on the new courses of instruction are likely to be available early next month.

During the past week the Victoria club has also had a number of visitors from the United States—drawn here by favorable weather reports, and they seem to have enjoyed themselves.

I wonder if the tourist trade people really understand how valuable an asset to the city are the finely-kept local golf courses.

These courses, although maintained by and for their own members make visitors welcome, and so far the tourist trade people have taken the facilities more or less for granted.

With the growth in popularity of the game, this may not always be so, and some limitation upon visiting playing facilities may soon be necessary. When that is the case the tourist trade may regret that it has not taken a greater interest in the local golfing scene.

It is with this possibility in view that the Victoria District Golf Committee is anxious that in future local planning some reservations should be made for new golf facilities before urban sprawl has taken up all suitable locations.

The area around Elk and Beaver Lakes has been suggested as one of the most suitable spots for a public golf course, and as it lies directly on one of the main tourist routes to the city, it has much to recommend it.

★ ★ ★

The other day I had a chat with Vernon Macan, the well-known golf architect, who about 30 years ago, drew up a plan for an 18-hole golf course on the Elk-Beaver site.

Mr. Macan has not seen the plan for years, and he does not know how much of the 120 acres of land is still available, but he said that at the time he was convinced that it would be an excellent site.

The present available acreage suggests that there is not enough cleared land for more than nine holes, but it is possible that with further clearing and acquisition to the south, it could be laid out for 18.

Mr. Macan says that current golf construction costs come to about $5,000 a hole. With some drainage work already done, the expenditure required at Elk-Beaver could be less than this.

PRESIDENT ABSENT—First meeting of the new board of directors of the B.C. Golf Association was held in Vancouver last night with John Carlow, the re-elected president, an unavoidable absentee.

John is still in St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria following his recent heart attack, but he is making a good recovery and is itching to get back on his feet again.

The president appointed the following as the various BCGA committees: Tournament and rules and course selection, Ernest Palmer, Ian McConnan and Les Williams, all Vancouver; membership and handicap committee, Les Paterson, Vancouver; junior development committee, Harry Young, Victoria; finance committee, Hilliard Lyle.

BUTTONS AT COLWOOD—Frank Scroggs and Bob Morrison will make a second defence of the city buttons at Colwood Sunday when they meet Roger Ross and Joe Evans of the host club.

Al Manson and Bill Carlow of the Victoria club are expected to have Bill Wakeham and Al McLeod as opponents in the junior buttons. The Victoria pair took the buttons from Kerry Greenwood and Dick Munn on their last appearance.

Back in Victoria after a holiday at San Diego is Robbie Robison, a co-chairman of the Victoria Inter-Club League. While in the south, Robbie saw part of the San Diego Open at Mission Valley course, and he also played over the fine new municipal courses at Torrey Pines.

Robbie brought me along the official program of the San Diego Open. The program asks spectators to be a little more careful about disposing of candy and hot dog wrappers.

"Nothing is more disturbing to a player about to make a crucial shot than to have a mustard-smeared hot dog napkin wrap itself around his club shaft."

Empty, too!

'It Helps if You're a Hero'

Rollie Miles, veteran Negro halfback with Edmonton Eskimos, says in Canada you don't have to be a football hero to avoid racial descrimination — but it helps.

"Certainly there is anti-Negro prejudice in Edmonton, but not much against me. I think I'm accepted a little more readily," said Miles.

"People in Edmonton say to me, 'You're a great football player. We like you.'

Miles, father of seven children, four boys and three girls, teaches physical education, law, business fundamentals and English at the St. Joseph's High School at Edmonton and says he finds no hostile feelings towards him.

Three Ladies' Rinks Named for Playoff

Three of the four provincial champions who will have it out at the Victoria Curling Club March 14-17 for the Western Canada ladies' curling championship have been decided.

Mrs. Isabelle Ketchen of Flin Flon yesterday earned the right to defend the title she won last year at Brandon when she took the Manitoba final in straight games.

The defending champions bested Mrs. Irene Jenkins of Winnipeg's Fort Rouge Curling Club, 10-6, in the first game after getting a 5-0 jump. It was tougher in the second game but four on the seventh end gave Mrs. Ketchen an 8-5 lead. She almost lost it on the 10th, when Mrs. Jenkins missed an out-turn takeout which would have sent the game into an extra end.

Last week, Joyce McKee's Saskatoon rink won the Saskatchewan title and Irene Fraser of Vancouver earned the right to represent British Columbia.

Alberta's representative will be decided Thursday and Friday at Stettler with three finalists playing a double round-robin series: Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, defending Alberta champion, is being challenged this time by Mrs. Ethel Lees of Red Deer, the 1958 Alberta champion, and Mrs. Helen Ellis of Grande Prairie.

Triple Crown Bid By Canadian Horse?

HIALEAH, Fla. (TNS)—Victoria Park, the fastest Canadian-bred horse ever to challenge the American turf, may be headed for racing immortality.

The flashy three-year-old goes into the $100,000 Flamingo Stakes this Saturday as the favorite, at probably 9-5 odds. And off his performance, Toronto owner E. P. Taylor will decide whether to make a serious bid for the Triple Crown of racing—the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness Stakes and the Belmont Stakes.

The stunning achievements of Victoria Park to date have probably brought industrialist-financier Taylor more pride than any of his financial coups.

The only thing worrying Taylor right now is whether to pick up another almost-sure Queen's Plate victory in Toronto June 11, or to gamble in the Belmont classic which will be run the same day.

Other Canadian owners are hoping Taylor, who is president of the Jockey Club Ltd. which operates big time racing in Ontario, will succumb to the lure of a major American triumph. With a handful of Queen's Plate victories already in his Windfields Farm stable, Taylor will probably go for the big one with Victoria Park.

Victoria Park catapulted into U.S. thoroughbred racing contention last Saturday with a sensational going-away victory in the track record time of 1.40.3 for a mile and sixteenth at Hialeah Park. He beat the favored Bally Ache—who he'll run against in The Flamingo—while knocking nearly two seconds off the track record.

JUST OFF RECORD

Ridden by jockey Manuel Ycaza, Victoria Park's time for the mile—1.33.4—was only two-fifths of a second behind the world record held by Swaps and Intentionally.

Victoria Park has won 10 of his 13 starts, earning $86,062, and would set a Canadian earning record with a win in The Flamingo, worth over $90,000. Present Canadian record of $173,417 was set by another Taylor-owned horse, Canadiana, who won 20 of her 62 starts.

Once offered by Taylor at $12,500 with no takers, Victoria Park won six of his first seven races and was beaten only when he lost a section of his foot in a fall. At that, he got up and finished in the middle of the pack.

Overlooked in many of his early races because he was pigeon-toed (so was Canadiana), Victoria Park went on to win two of Canada's richest juvenile events last fall, the Coronation Stakes and the Cup and Saucer Stakes. He wound up his two-year-old campaign by winning the Remsen Stakes in New York.

Victoria Park has been cavorting through morning workouts here in times better than some Canadian track records. He ran five-eighths of a mile one morning recently in 58 seconds, compared to the Canadian record of 58.1.

Third Match Drawn

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) — The third cricket test match between the West Indies and England ended in stalemate Tuesday.

The five-match series now stands at one win for England, two draws and two to be played.

The six-day Kingston test tapered off into a draw with the West Indies 55 runs short of a win and England needing four more West Indian wickets to clinch its second game of the series.

England scored 277 runs in its first innings and 305 on its second time to bat. The hosts made 353 in their first innings and 175 for the loss of six wickets the second time.

The final day of the six-day tilt had the makings of a thrilling race when the West Indians were set the task of making 230 runs in 245 minutes.

But the English bowlers cut off their hopes by retiring six men and after the tea break the West Indians decided to play for a certain draw rather than a risky win.

English speed bowler Freddie Trueman clean-bowled four of the first five batsmen.

Horvath Maintains His Lead

Bronco Horvath of Boston had only one point in three games last week but still maintained the National Hockey League scoring leadership with a four-point bulge over Bobby Hull of Chicago.

Horvath earned only a single assist, giving him 37 goals and 36 assists for 73 points. Hull, scoring four goals and earning an assist in a Sunday game, has 33 goals and 36 helpers for 69 points.

Injured centre Jean Beliveau of Montreal fell to third place with 66 points, 32 goals and 34 assists.

Henri Richard of Montreal holds fourth spot with 62 points, 27 goals and 35 assists while Vic Stasiuk of Boston is next with 24 goals and 37 assists for 61 points.

Gordie Howe of Detroit and Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal are tied for sixth place with 60 points.

Grain Market

WINNIPEG (CP) — Flax prices declined sharply with July and October futures hitting new seasonal lows amid moderately active trading.

Liberal offerings in flax met thin commercial demand, although some purchasing was attributed to export accounts. Trade reports indicated parcel lots had been sold for export to the United Kingdom and Japan. The decline also reflected weaker vegetable oil markets in the United States.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included 155,000 bushels to The Netherlands and 50,000 to the U.K.

Union Bay Pulp Mill Hopes Dim

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Hopes for a new pulp mill on Vancouver Island at Union Bay, dimmed considerably yesterday when Canadian Collieries Resources reported that it had terminated negotiations on a prospective partnership deal.

The offer was not good enough, in the opinion of the directors of Canadian Collieries. Mr. Whittal said the deal with an unnamed purchaser had fallen through.

Last December Trade Minister Bonner said that Canadian Collieries were making initial plans for a pulp mill at Union Bay—site of the main coaling port — if they could find a suitable partner to help finance the deal.

Mr. Whittall, three weeks ago explained a rise in the stock of Canadian Collieries from $8 to $10, as the result of negotiations with another company.

Although the deal is off, Mr. Whittall said the operating results for the year ended March 31, would be substantially better than those of last year and that the outlook for the future under normal market conditions was quite attractive.

Cheap in Seattle, Socred Says

Is PUC Cause of High Electric Bills?

A Social Credit member wondered in the legislature yesterday whether the Public Utilities Commission might be to blame for at least part of the fact that electricity costs more in Vancouver than in Seattle.

Bert Price (SC, Vancouver-Burrard) quoted comparative electric bill figures and said that in many cases rates in Seattle were up to 50 per cent less than they were in Vancouver.

He noted that electricity rates were not set by the companies, such as the B.C. Electric, but by the Public Utilitiies Commission. He noted the PUC was destined to get only $343,000 in this year's budget.

He asked whether the PUC had the staff to properly assess the application for rates that the utility put forward. He suggested that if the PUC didn't have the staff, it might be taking the utility figures and letting them go at that.

"Let's make sure that the PUC gives the public the protection it deserves," he said.

Ailing Archie Gibbs Returns to Hospital

P. A. Gibbs, Oak Bay MLA, returned to hospital yesterday after only a brief convalescent period at home following an operation shortly before the opening of the current legislature session. An official at Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday described Mr. Gibbs' condition as only fair. Since his operation, Mr. Gibbs has been keeping in close touch with legislative activities.

Opens Fire on Parks Budget

Reeve Moves In To Back Belief

Parks-Beaches Estimates Increased to $21,000

For weeks Saanich Reeve George Chatterton has been saying that Victoria-Saanich parks and beaches committee expenditures have been too small.

Yesterday he did something about it.

Settling down to discuss the proposed 1960 budget with the committee at City Hall the reeve opened fire with the remark that its $15,400 total was "inadequate."

OVER $20,000

In less than an hour, with a series of motions for a bit more here and a bit more there, he had run it up over $20,000.

And because nobody had accurately kept track of the exact amount over $20,000 he settled for a blanket recommendation to Victoria and Saanich councils that the committee get $21,000 this year.

CASE OF FIDGETS

Reeve Chatterton's free-wheeling additions to the budget gave Victoria representative Ald. Hugh Ramsay a bad case of the fidgets which was only slightly relieved by the repeated assurances of Chairman Ald. Mooney that the committee was, after all only making a recommendation.

The reeve's enthusiasm for boosting the budget was all the more remarkable for the fact that Victoria has suggested that its contribution to the committee this year rests upon Saanich putting up an identical amount.

In the past Saanich has paid one-third and Victoria two-thirds.

REVISED BUDGET

If both councils agree to the revised budget each municipality will put up $10,500.

Last year's total budget for maintenance of the committee's projects was $12,800.

The Saanich reeve prefaced his budget-building with the advice that members of the committee should consider themselves as committee members first when the committee was meeting, and as council members second.

WHO KNOWS?

"Who knows," he cracked, "I may vote against this myself when it comes before council."

The committee administers the Elk-Beaver Lake Park, Eagle Park and Hamsterly Park at Elk Lake and Mt. Douglas Park.

Financially

Varsity Benefit To City

Greater Victoria will benefit financially from future expansion of Victoria University, Prof. Neil A. Swainson, assistant professor on the faculty of education at the university, told the Kiwanis club of Victoria North last night.

By 1962, 1,000 out-of-town students will be living in boarding houses here while attending university, he predicted, and "each student will spend about $1,200 during the school year, contributing $1,200,000 annually to the local economy."

"Students will come here from other parts of the province," Mr. Swainson said, adding that generally "university towns are a wonderful place in which to work and live." He hoped this could be said of Victoria in future years.

Plant Mystery Easily Solved

Mystery easily solved. Provincial botanist Dr. Adam Szczawinski points to plant he identified as member of large pumpkin-marrow family which grew in pot where Japanese orange seeds were planted. Digging in soil around the plant he found disintegrated orange seeds put in by Mrs. David Moor, 4000 Lockhaven, which failed to germinate. Plant at left is Japanese orange, raised in city greenhouse, which flowered in some three years instead of five to seven—(Colonist photo.)

Licences

Zero Hour Near

That annual "zero hour" for licence plates is drawing near, Victoria's Chief Constable John Blackstock warned all car drivers yesterday.

"At midnight Monday, Feb. 29, all cars with 1959 licence plates must be off the streets—all streets," he said. "As of that moment, only cars with current plates will be on the streets legally.

"Any cars with old plates seen, even if just parked, will be ticketed."

No Reasons

Coach Deal Off

A deal which would have made Victoria's Vancouver Island Coach Lines one of the largest inter-city coach services in Canada has fallen through.

G. Conway Parrott, general manager of VICL, confirmed last night that the company failed to pick up an option to purchase two B.C. Electric subsidiaries, Pacific Stage Lines Ltd. and Vancouver Gray Line Motor Tours, both of Vancouver.

SUBJECT TO PUC

Harold Husband, owner of VICL, announced the purchase of the Vancouver firms Jan. 20, subject to approval of the Public Utilities Commission.

He could not be reached to comment on the latest development.

SERVICE STAYS

But Mr. Parrott, who declined to discuss the reasons for the deal falling through, said plans for an integrated coach service from Victoria to mainland points by way of the B.C. government's Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen ferry service would not be affected.

He said VICL will work in conjunction with the BCE subsidiaries to provide a through service.

Crewmen Man 'James Bay'

With three enthusiastic "crewmen," Rt. Rev. Ernest Reed, Bishop of Ottawa, is pictured at mast of "HMCS James Bay"—mocked up in James Bay Hall to illustrate steering of straight path through life as aboard ship. Judy Sarginson, 10, of 527 Niagara; Doris Puritch, 9, 111 Clarence, and Danny Darwin, 7, of 521 Niagara, are among children enjoying Church of England bishop's daily mission. —(Colonist photo.)

Bishop Tells Christians:

'Come to Grips With the World'

The growing church of today is taking an increasingly active part in the affairs of humanity at all levels, from the family unit to legislative bodies.

This is only natural, Rt. Rev. Ernest Reed, Bishop of Ottawa, told the Colonist yesterday. The church and its leaders try to follow the policy set down by Jesus Christ, who entered the world to help mankind to redemption.

Bishop Reed is conducting a Parish Teaching Mission all this week, for adults every evening at Christ Church Cathedral, and for children daily at 4 p.m. at James Bay Hall, Niagara and Medina.

The mission, Bishop Reed explained, was not a "teacher-recruiting" plan; nor was it evangelical in nature. Its purpose was to bring church and people closer together by explaining one to the other, and by answering questions and problems.

Of the part ministers might play in community affairs, he said:

"It is very important for people of the Christian faith to come to grips with the contemporary situation in the world. Not only the ministers, but all church people should take an active part in community affairs at all levels. This is the heart of the Christian religion.

"God is just as interested in the affairs of the legislature as in those of the church building."

Bishop Reed was rather pleased with the young people of today.

"They have more freedom than, say, in my day," he said. "This brings more responsibilities, and they in turn bring more problems. I find the young people of today facing up to those responsibilities and problems better than when I was a youngster."

District 63

School Buses Ruled Out For Concerts

School-sponsored transportation to Victoria Symphony Orchestra educational concerts was ruled out by Saanich school district 63 this week.

A letter from Royal Oak High School principal John Clark pointed out the school district's three buses would not carry all the students to the Canada Council-sponsored concerts and asked trustees to arrange for extra transportation.

After some discussion, a majority of trustees decided it would be too expensive to transport students to the concerts.

Death Follows Street Collapse

Frank Slingsby, 76, 3001 Shakespeare, who collapsed while walking with a companion, Owen Traveris, of the same address, near Shakespeare and North Dairy Road at 3.45 p.m. yesterday, was pronounced dead after being taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by police ambulance. Death was believed caused by heart failure.

Collision Victim Slightly Better

Dale Tennant, 19, of Brentwood, critically injured Friday in a two-car collision in Esquimalt, yesterday showed "slight improvement" at St. Joseph's Hospital where he is now listed in fair condition. Three others injured in the crash are in good condition at St. Joseph's.

Bonner To End Debate

Attorney - General Robert Bonner is expected to wind up the budget debate in the legislature Friday afternoon.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston will lead off speakers today at 2 p.m. Other afternoon speakers will be Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby), Fred Sharp (SC, Vancouver-East), James Reid (SC, Salmon Arm).

Speakers at tonight's session will be Alex Matthew (SC, Vancouver-Centre), Mel Bryan (L, North Vancouver) and Don Robinson (SC, Lillooet).

There will also be a night sitting Thursday.

Bonner Makes Statement

Boys' Town Enquiry On

Attorney-General Bonner disclosed Tuesday that his department is engaged in an investigation of the operation of the boys' town youth hostel project near Hope and advised prospective investors to hold off until the inquiry is complete.

Mr. Bonner said in an interview:

"As a result of interim reports to my office and because there are suggestions some people may be soliciting funds on behalf of Boys' Town, people would be well-advised to hold off until the backers of the project have an opportunity to review this operation in the light of inquiries we are making in co-operation with them."

The attorney-general said a number of reputable people had backed the project. The inquiry by the attorney-general's department on their behalf was not yet complete.

Boys' Town is an 85-acre farm tract near Hope which was converted into a hostel-type sanctuary for wayward youths.

Mr. Bonner said he thought the idea of the project was sound.

Tory Charges:

Socreds Treat Voters Like 10-Year-Olds

Progressive Conservative leader Deane Finlayson said here last night the Social Credit government plans to wage the forthcoming provincial election on the level of a 10-year-old child.

He told some 100 party supporters attending a Victoria meeting "it's quite clear" the provincial government has made its decision on how to appeal to voters.

Mr. Finlayson said "one thrust will be made to the right-wing voter" on the basis that the only choice is Socred or socialism. And by means of the $50 homeowner grant, he said, Premier Bennett hopes to draw sufficient strength from the CCF to put his government back in power.

"The premier's approach is an insult to the mentality of the voters. It's a travesty of democracy to make an appeal on the basis that the people of this province are of a mentality less than a 10-year-old," he said.

"The people, I'm sure, are glad of any tax relief. Nevertheless they are not going to sell themselves for this kind of irresponsibility. They will not vote for $50 or for something because they're against something else."

Maj.-Gen. C. A. P. Murison, another speaker at the meeting, described the $50 grant as a "tranquilizer" for the troubles which beset homeowners and said the Conservatives can offer a "cure."

Garden Notes

Rich Soil Gags Baby

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

As I mentioned in yesterday's column, one of the precautions to be observed in starting seeds indoors is the timing, for plants coddled too long indoors seldom make satisfactory growth after planting out. Another very important point is the choice of soil into which the seeds are to be sown.

A seed-sowing soil mixture needn't be very rich, for the seed itself contains enough plant food to sustain the baby plant for several weeks. The first leaves to appear—the cotyledons or seed leaves—are filled with nutrients, and the seedling lives on this stored food until the roots are big enough to forage for themselves, after which the seed leaves shrivel and drop off. Those thickish seed leaves are very obvious in such plants as cucumbers and beans but not so apparent in some of the flowers. In onions and similar one-leafed seedlings, the food reserve remains below ground.

A rich soil, therefore, is quite unnecessary for starting seeds; in fact, soil heavily charged with nutrients can be an embarrassment to the plant, stimulating it to too much leaf growth at a time when root development is much more important.

What is most important to a seedling is the texture of the soil. It must be light enough to be penetrated by tiny, fragile root hairs and, above all, it must drain freely, retaining only enough moisture to supply the needs of the seedlings but never enough to puddle the surface. Water poured on the surface should vanish in a matter of seconds. Ordinary garden soil is seldom right for starting seeds.

A good mixture is two parts loam soil, one part peat moss and one part coarse sand, measured by bulk, not by weight. Ideally, the soil should be lime-free medium loam with just enough clay in it to leave a smear when rubbed on the hand when moist.

★ ★ ★

The peat should be put through a sieve to get out the lumps and the sand should be really coarse stuff, with grains varying from ⅛ to ¼ inch across. The coarser kinds of seashore sand are usually very good, and if taken from well above the high water mark, it is unlikely they will have too much salt content.

For each bushel of this mixture, you should add 1½ ounces of superphosphate and ¾ ounces of chalk. The superphosphate can be purchased from any garden supply firm and for the chalk you can crush to powder a few sticks of blackboard chalk. If you lack the means of weighing these ingredients, you can figure three level tablespoonfuls to the ounce, but use a proper measuring spoon from your wife's baking equipment.

★ ★ ★

To measure the soil mixture, a box 22 inches long, 10 inches wide and 10 inches deep will hold exactly a bushel. When this is filled with sand or soil, you'll find it is all a strong man can do to lift it, much less carry it. Don't press the soil down when measuring—just thump the box on the ground occasionally when filling.

I spread my measured loam on the concrete floor of our garage in a long, low, flat-topped layer and this is covered with an even layer of slightly dampened peat moss. The sand should be dry, so as to run and mix easily, and a little should be held back for mixing with the chalk and superphosphate additives, to be sprinkled evenly over the surface of the pile. The whole is them mixed thoroughly with a coal shovel or a flat spade.

TV in Review

By Fred Danzig

Pie-Slinging Updated

NEW YORK (UPI) — In comedy, as in industry, technology means progress.

Bob Hope, an old pro at retooling his assembly line comedy with topical references, showed off the latest 1960-model pie-in-the face joke on last night's NBC-TV special. Eschewing the time-honored but obsolete custard pie, Hope lathered Wally Cox's impassive face by using a modern aerosol pressure can. Slower, yes. But neater. So much for applied science.

★ ★ ★

Hope's hour came up with the usual number of laughs, but basically uninspired comedy dominated. Hope's opening monologue tossed in a number of harpoons as he ranged over Jack Paar's crying and President Eisenhower's flying. The line I liked most kidded TV. In speaking of strikes by TV writers and actors, Hope said, "but there's nothing to worry about until the horses go on strike."

Wally Cox perked things up with a nutty, wild rendition of the song, "Running Bear." Later, Hope presented some magazine awards to a group of motion picture players, including Gina Lollobrigida ("Best foreign actress," I'll have you know), and he was refreshingly irreverent as he doled out the hardware. The recipients, of course, were quite stuffy.

★ ★ ★

The three sketches had one thing in common: weak endings. They involved politics, bullfighters and golf. The first skit saw Cox elected president. In the second, Cox, as "el pussy cat," won Ginger Rogers from rival matador, "el chicken," played by Hope. The final skit saw Hope go off with a sick joke after his golfing goof caused a major traffic accident. Hope's skits rarely rise above the commonplace and last night was no exception.

★ ★ ★

Steve Allen's campaign to elevate the quality of TV—even if he has to do it himself—saw him devote time on his NBC-TV comedy show to G. B. Shaw's "Devil's Disciple." Maurice Evans was at home with the scintillating dialogue and Gabe Dell was good as a Yankee rebel, but Tom Poston had less success with Shaw's lines. It was, however, a bright touch but I suppose Allen will be accused now of "playing it safe." After all, he used Shaw.

Perhaps fearing that Shaw might alienate part of the audience, the Allen crew, with guest Martha Raye, later roared through a broad, zany sketch about a TV commercial. This served to remind us of the other extreme in comedy.

'Exodus' Cast Assembling

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Called on "Exodus" producer-director Otto Preminger prior to his departure for London and Israel, and found his office a beehive of activity. "I won't be back until the picture (with 145 speaking parts) is finished," the bald, blond, blue-eyed Otto told me. The "Exodus" cast will be flying over by Israel airline late in March. And the cast is growing—Paul Newman, Eva Marie Saint, Lee J. Cobb, Sir Ralph Richardson, Peter Lawford, Hugh Griffith.

★ ★ ★

Next project for Preminger is a play on Broadway, "Critics Choice," starring Henry Fonda. "We go into rehearsals Oct. 15."

★ ★ ★

Jackie Gleason hits 44 on Friday.

★ ★ ★

Irish Maureen O'Hara is delighted that her musical, "Christine," opens in Philadelphia on St. Patrick's Day.

★ ★ ★

Martine Carol, who used to wear panties while taking baths for the screen, is shocked at the nudity in French pictures nowadays. Says she prefers Marilyn Monroe, who doesn't show "everything." And I remember the day when people were shocked at Marilyn.

★ ★ ★

Although she lives in Europe, Ava Gardner has all make-up for personal use airmailed to her from Hollywood.

Eve Arden is reading plays with husband Brooks West for next season, they hope, on Broadway.

★ ★ ★

Who will be the hero and who the villain when TV heroes James Garner and Efrem Zimbalist Jr. co-star in the feature movie, "Fever in the Blood"?

★ ★ ★

Marlene Dietrich caused her usual sensation in Rome when she went walking with French actor RAF Vallone. They plan a play together.

★ ★ ★

Gale Storm, with 126 "Oh Susannahs" in the telefilm cans, is taking time out for a breather with her family of three teen-age boys and a small daughter. "My husband and I are now hoping to see some of our neighbors in Royal Oaks," says Gale—among them, Julie London, Steve Allen and Jayne Meadows, Giselle McKenzie, Shirley MacLaine and Carolyn Jones.

★ ★ ★

Spotted Barry Coe, six-shooter expert, bearded, and lunching with Dolores Michaels, the female in the film. His wife is a former Miss Norway—1959. These northern beauties get their man in Hollywood.

Frankie Vaughan, a big star in England and now in the Monroe picture, has joined forces with Doris Day's Davon Publishing Company in London. "And I shall probably do a movie with Miss Day this year," he says.

The Living Commonwealth

Malaya Forges Ahead

By FREDERICK COLEMAN

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters) — Malaya, 10th and newest member of the British Commonwealth, enters the 1960s with a year of record prosperity behind it and the anticipation of another to come.

With its economic strength still based on rubber and tin, the country is endeavoring to diversify its economy by seeking self-sufficiency in food production and by encouraging overseas capital investment by a system of "tax holidays."

The avowedly conservative government of Tunku (Prince) Abdul Rahman is firmly in the saddle. The once-menacing guerrilla forces of Communist terrorism have dwindled to an estimated 700 remnants holed up in the remote Thai border country and harried daily by troops.

In this multi-racial, tropical land where the Malays are already outnumbered by other races, there have in the past been sporadic outbursts of inter-racial violence. But the government, forging ahead with plans to create a national Malayan consciousness and to introduce Malay as the official language to replace English, believes that this danger is less than it was when Malaya became independent on Aug. 31, 1957.

The census of 1957 shows that 49.7 per cent of the population is Malaysian Malay Indonesian or aborigine, 37.1 per cent Chinese, 11.8 Indian and 1.4 per cent others includ ing Europeans.

★ ★ ★

The pattern by which the Malays are basically the country's administrators and the Chinese the traders, has been maintained, although strenuous efforts are being made to bring about greater Malay participation in business.

Kuala Lumpur, the capital, is just 100 years old and has all the aspects of a boom town. Office and residential space is at a premium, the narrow streets are blocked with rush hour traffic and tall office buildings are springing up.

Food hawkers cry their wares outside 16-storey banks and on the outskirts of town the traditional Malay thatched homes perched on stilts are being gradually pushed back.

★ ★ ★

In the industrial centre of Petaling Jaya new factories are turning out products ranging from cement and car batteries to baby food under the government's five-year, "tax holiday" scheme. It has stimulated investment worth an estimated 150,000,000 Malayan dollars, $46,725,000 Canadian.

Unofficial sources say that about 200,000,000 dollars ($61,410,000) in capital has reached the country from Chinese in Hong Kong, Singapore and Indonesia.

Much state developmental money has been earmarked for a program to raise living standards of the country population, which make up about 75 per cent of the whole population of some 6,300,000.

Tips for Parents

Loved Only Child Has Good Chance

By EDITH HENRY

Have you an only child? Then you know that both considerable thought and study have been devoted to your problem.

In the United States, one out of every six couples has an only child. Among children, about one in 20 is "only."

There are many good reasons for this. It may be a matter of choice, of health or of finance.

Other influences are late marriage, a first child that is handicapped, or the inability to have another child.

The reasons behind the "only-ness" are not so important as the way in which it is regarded by the parents themselves.

★ ★ ★

Mrs. T. came in to discuss the waywardness of her four-year-old daughter. We noticed that she constantly excused the child by saying "Of course, she is an only child."

It was obvious that Mrs. T. laid great stress on the small girl's lack of brothers and sisters, and she pitied her.

Any child constantly regarded with pity cannot grow into a healthy, secure individual.

★ ★ ★

Other parents, feeling their only child's need of companionship, adopt another child — "Because our son needs a playmate."

This is obviously unfair to the adopted youngster. From the beginning his course is set as compensating for another's deprivation.

He is not wanted for himself. This may spell disaster for both children.

Another point of view was expressed by a father and mother discussing what they called "our daughter's ungratefulness." They said, "We tell her she must be good to us to make up for being the only one . . ."

Hardly a just load for a daughter to carry, and one she was resenting.

Returns In Iberia

Bob Waldof who went to Australia last July returned aboard the Iberia on her first trip to the Pacific Coast. The great white liner arrived in Vancouver on Monday.

He is now home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Waldof, Service Street, Victoria.

Bob left here aboard the Lakembia and on arrival in Sidney bought himself a motorbike.

He used the bike as a mode of travel during his stay down under. First he traveled up the coast route to Ipswich where he joined former Cowichan High School students, Bob Sherman and Ken McEwan.

Bob Sherman has been working in a burly board factory in Ipswich and this April he will leave for England, sailing via New York. Ken McEwan is now an apprentice radio announcer in Sidney.

Bob joined a survey party in Northern Australia and later returned south to Melbourne via the inland highway.

Before leaving here Bob was a soil technician with the department of highways. He plans to work here until the wanderlust hits him again.

England and Europe are the next places he wants to visit. He thinks it is a wonderful way of learning. "No one could have told me nor could I have read it in a book what I learned during my trip," is the way he puts it.

Patricia Pye Chooses Pink for Attendants

All shades of pink were seen at an evening wedding in Centennial United Church recently.

At the double-ring ceremony, Phyllis Patricia Pye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Pye, 1609 Myrtle Street, exchanged vows with Mr. Robert Earl Showers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Showers, 2295 Cranmore Road.

The attendants wore gowns of pink and carried colonial bouquets of carnations of varying pink shades.

The bride carried a bouquet of red roses mixed with hyacinths. Her gown was of imported French lace and fine net. An all-lace fitted bodice featuring sabrina neckline, flowed into a full skirt of net with a diagonal lace design. A chapel veil of net, enhanced by similar lace, was held by a pearl tiara.

Flower girl, Kathy Crow, wore a floor-length gown of pink lace and net. Maid of honor, Miss Joy Montgomery chose pink organza over rose taffeta. Bridesmaid Miss Linda Pye had a matching gown in a different shade of taffeta.

Taffeta gowns with net skirts were worn by the other bridesmaids, Misses Dianna and Donna Pye, one in shrimp pink and the other a paler shade.

Brother of the groom, Mr. Jack Showers, was best man, with Mr. Dave Unwin, Mr. Merlin Hawes and Mr. Dennis purcell as ushers.

A reception was held in the C and C hall afterwards.

The new Mrs. Robert Showers changed into a floral silk sheath dress with matching jacket and a pale blue coat with a white carnation to leave for a honeymoon in the U.S.A.

The young couple will reside at 635 Battery Street on their return.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: We need advice from a stranger. You just don't talk to your clergyman about things like this.

Our daughter is 26. She has a good job in a big hotel. Her boy friend Joe works there as a bellhop. They've been going together three years. Joe has never once mentioned marriage although he's 30 and never takes out anyone but our Bessie.

He lives in a rooming house near us. Three nights a week he comes for dinner and uses our bathtub. He says it's impossible to get into the bathroom where he lives. We don't mind except he never cleans the tub after himself. Once I put a can of detergent right in the middle of the tub but he didn't take the hint.

We wouldn't care if we were sure he'd be in the family some day, but we don't want to be taken advantage of. What do you think, Ann?—NO NAMES.

★ ★ ★

Dear No Names: I suspect the only ring you'll ever see is the one Joe leaves around the tub. A fellow 30 who has been going with a girl three years would surely have declared himself if he had any serious intentions.

Bessie should have a frank talk with Joe and tell him to either fish or cut bait.

Her Own Judgment

Dear Ann: Our 16-year-old complained bitterly that we never let her exercise her own judgment. She begged for more independence. My husband and I agreed to give her a chance.

We started by letting her have $500. This was supposed to take care of all her needs, including clothing, lunch money, spending money, club dues, transportation — whatever came along. We gave her the money on her 16th birthday (Nov. 15). It was understood she was to get another $500 on May 15th. In other words, a total of $1,000 total annual allowance.

Well, here it is February and she hasn't got a nickel to her name. She bought a satin evening coat, 20-inch white kid gloves, velvet lounging pants, gold harem slippers, and a blonde wig "for kicks. I could use your entire column to list the foolish things she did with her money.

Now she whines that a girl can't go around penniless and she wants an advance on the next $500. What shall we do? —DISGUSTED.

★ ★ ★

Dear Disgusted: If you give this addle-bained kid another $500 you have less sense than she has.

She wanted a chance to use her own judgment and she got it. Give her exactly enough money for transportation and milk to go with the sandwiches she can carry from home. An additional 50 cents a week until May 1 should be the limit. Then put her back on a weekly allowance—and make it conservative.

100 Per Cent Sick

Dear Ann: "One-hundred-per-cent Mom" made me 100 per cent sick. Why do parents get insulted when their kids are not included in every invitation? I don't blame a bride for saying "no kids" at her wedding dinner and reception. This is supposed to be her happiest day and she has the right to want it to be as nearly perfect as possible.

I've seen some of these kids who are considered "little gentlemen" by their parents. They are usually hogging the sweet table, sliding around on the dance floor, fighting, or nagging to go home.

I will probably be called every name in the book by your readers. Nothing infuriates people like criticizing their children but I simply had to tell you, Ann, that I for one am with you 100 per cent on this.—PHOOEY ON KIDS AT FANCY PARTIES.

What's Cooking!

Conserves, Relishes Add to Menu Variety

By LOUISE MOORE

Here are a few conserves and relishes which will add much to your three meals a day—nice too, as give-aways.

APRICOT-PINEAPPLE JAM

Wash and put a pound of dried apricots into saucepan with two cups water. Bring to simmer and cook covered for 10 minutes. Uncover and cook until really tender and soft.

Mash or put apricot through coarse sieve. Add 2½ cups crushed pineapple, juice of 1 lemon and 4 cups sugar. Bring to simmer and cook uncovered until thick as desired, stirring quite frequently — about 15 minutes or so.

One-quarter cup blanched and halved almonds may be added the last 15 minutes of cooking. Pour sterilized jars, top with paraffin and seal at once. Makes about nine jelly glasses of delicious sunny conserve for breakfast.

CRANBERRY GINGER RELISH

Put one 1-lb. can whole cranberry sauce into dish. Add 2 tblsp. grated orange rind and 2 tblsp. slivered candied ginger. Stir until well mixed. Chill thoroughly for flavors to blend. Makes about 1¾ cups tastly relish to accompany a main dish. Raisins may be added too.

PEACH JAM

Thaw four (12 oz.) boxes of frozen sliced peaches. Measure 5 cups and chop them very fine. Place in large saucepan and add 1 tblsp. lemon juice and six ½ cups sugar. Mix well.

Bring to full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once add 1 bottle liquid fruit pectin. Stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes.

Ladle into sterilized glasses and seal with paraffin. Makes about 11 6-ounce glasses.

GOLDEN CONSERVE

Place 2 cups orange pulp, 2 cups diced apples and 2 cups canned pineapple diced in saucepan. Add 3 cups sugar and heat slowly.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?
Made of dry 1⅛" stock in 10 and 12-inch widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

APPEARANCE?
For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?
"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building.
The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint.
"FOREST" siding represents an economy to home builders. Costing less than most other types of siding the lap design ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?
As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?
If a natural finish is desired, use equal proportions of raw linseed oil and any well-known brand of waterproof sealer. This not only protects the wood surface, but also brings out the natural beauty of the knots and the grain. If a colored finish is desired "FOREST" siding can easily be painted. It is recommended that a sharp instrument be used to score the finished product underneath the butt (where it will not show) to stop formation of a vapor barrier.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

When a misfit looms, even a powerful distributional hand must be bid very slowly in an effort to locate a safe landing place. Once a fit has been found, more aggressive action may be taken. Remember to evaluate your hand continuously in the light of the bidding. What seemed like a sizable asset, such as a void suit, may become a liability after partner has shown great strength in that suit.

North's three-heart call was a slight overbid. Also, rather than temporize with three spades, South might have rebid clubs, showing his five-five distribution. But the final spot was excellent.

Declarer won the spade king, and led a trump. East played low, and South's king won the trick. South now cashed the diamond king, trumped a low diamond, cashed the heart ace — sluffing a spade — then led another trump. East pounced with the ace and returned the club jack. Now there was no way for South to ruff another diamond, and down the drain went the contract which should have been made with a little more care and better timing.

After winning the spade king, declarer should immediately lead a diamond to his king; then ruff a diamond. If East ducks the next trump lead, South wins, ruffs another diamond, then cashes the heart ace, and leads dummy's last trump.

If East wins on the first trump lead, he can return only one more trump, and nothing can stop declarer from ruffing two diamonds in dummy.

Scottish Set Belt-Buckle Ceremonies

Specially-designed belt buckles will be received by each member of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) from Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross Saturday.

Lieutenant-Governor Ross had the buckles designed in England and purchased them as a gesture of recognition for the voluntary service of the Island's only infantry militia.

The 200 men from Victoria and up-Island companies, with the regimental band will parade from Bay Street Armory at 7.30, going by Douglas, Yates, Cook and Rockland to Government House. Buses will be used if it rains.

Regimental commander Col. P. F. Ramsay said it will be the first time a militia unit has taken part in a presentation at Government House.

Postal workers in Victoria are taking no further action on their demands for higher wages until the federal budget is brought down in the next few weeks.

Robert Coey, spokesman for the Victoria branch of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association, said there are indications some $17,000,000 has been set aside for civil service increases.

Service Stations' Case:

Trading Stamps Hurt Merchants

Expenses of handling trading stamps could cost service station operators as much as half their net profits, the legislative committee investigating trading stamps and other promotional gimmicks was told this week.

A brief from the Automotive Retailers Association said trading stamps and other promotional schemes are not much more than nuisances in the long run, as far as service station operators were concerned.

NOTHING BUT LEECH

A letter was read from a service station operator in Portland, Ore., who said trading stamp companies were "nothing but a leech living off the efforts and ability of retail merchants that were foolish enough to start giving them away."

J. L. Kinneard, secretary-manager of the Automotive Retailers' Association, said merchants who start using trading stamps to remain competitive are the biggest losers in the "racket."

The brief pointed out that federal legislation outlaws use of the stamps, but has been found to have loopholes.

He said "a provincial law would simply augment the prohibition already established . . . and would prevent B.C. being faced with expensive legal actions now taking place in some eastern provinces."

Of U.S., Toronto

Suspicion 'Unites' Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Is Canadian unity founded on suspicion of the United States and hatred of Toronto?

The idea was tossed about Sunday by a panel conference at the sixth annual winter Couchiching conference here.

Discussing the increase of U.S.-controlled investment in Canada, Monteith Douglas, director of the Canadian office of the national industrial conference board, said suspicion of the U.S. is one of the things that holds Canada together.

"The other thing is hatred of Toronto," interjected T. W. Kent, former editor of the Winnipeg Free Press and now assistant to the president of Chemcell Limited.

Mr. Douglas demurred. The word, he said, was not hatred. "It is envy."

Newly formed Branch 60 of the B.C. Old-Age Pensioners' Organization at Langford received its charter recently from provincial board member Mrs. Margaret Carcer.

Elected to office for 1960 during the meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Duncan, 2838 Bryn Mawr, were A. M. Glover, president; Adam Duncan, first vice-president; L. E. Johnson, second vice-president and Mrs. Adam Duncan, secretary-treasurer.

Executive board members are P. Watt, R. N. Bell, A. M. Hayward, A. E. Goodall, Mrs. J. E. Fuller, and E. Bowering.

Children Saved

'Black Cat' Priest Hero to Eskimos

MONTREAL (CP) — The story of how an Oblate missionary nicknamed the "Black Cat of the North" saved 12 Eskimo children from possible death by drowning or exposure has been told here.

It concerns Rev. Robert Lechat, a French-born Roman Catholic priest who has returned to Fort Chimo, 1,500 miles north of Montreal, after undergoing treatment here.

His feet were frozen Dec. 15 because he had loaned his boots to an Eskimo guide. The guide's own boots and clothing were soaked when their snowmobile carrying the children crashed through lake ice in 25-below weather.

Father Lechat pushed the children, aged between two and 12, through an escape hatch in the roof of the vehicle and led them to the shore. He made them shed their wet clothing and crawl into sleeping bags.

Then he gave the guide his remaining pair of dry mukluks to go to Fort Chimo, 40 miles away for help. Meanwhile, the missionary built an igloo for the children and helped keep them warm by burning gasoline in the snow. The guide returned with assistance the next day.

Swartz Bay Water Main Turned Down

Sidney waterworks is not interested in enlarging its territory.

Water board chairman G. E. Goddard said a recent request to lay a water main to Swartz Bay to service the new ferry has been turned down.

The reason given is the village water supply is adequate to take care of the district as it exists. If a main were run to Swartz Bay the people whose homes adjoin it would have to be supplied. This, Mr. Goddard said, would be impossible.

The alternative plan would be to accept the chlorinated water from Elk Lake. Residents would be deprived of their well water supply. Mr. Goddard said Sidney water was completely pure, nothing was added.

Retarded Children's School Saanich Parents' Goal

A school for retarded children within Saanich school district is the aim of parents in the area, Trustee David Woodsworth told the school board this week.

Mr. Woodsworth was reporting on a recent meeting held with parents of retarded children in the district. He said the parents felt it would be easier to have a school in Sidney rather than take part in a community school in Victoria because transportation is a problem.

He said he told parents at least eight children would be required to form a class.

LONDON (Reuters) — An Icelandic gunboat chased and fired six shots at a British trawler fishing five miles off Iceland two days ago, it was reported Tuesday. No damage was done.

B.C. May Go After 1968 Winter Olympics

Deputy provincial secretary Laurie Wallace said Tuesday the British Columbia cabinet hopes to hold a fact-finding meeting soon with parties interested in bringing the 1968 Winter Olympic Games to Garibaldi Park.

Mr. Wallace said every effort will be made to arrange a meeting with Canadian Olympic representative Sydney Dawes and Dave Matthews, president of the B.C. Amateur Athletic Union.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood and Premier Bennett have already expressed interest in the suggestion the games be held at Garibaldi Park, 30 miles northeast of here. An American business syndicate is interested in developing Garibaldi as a resort area.

Earlier in Ottawa, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he has no knowledge of any plans to build a $12,000,000 skating rink in Vancouver. He was replying in the Commons to Guy Rouleau (L, Montreal-Dollard) who asked whether there were plans to build such a rink with a view to attracting the 1968 Winter Olympics to Western Canada.

'No Missile Bases'

Bonn Seeks Franco Link

Britain Against

BONN, Germany (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government indicated yesterday it was considering negotiating with Spain for the right to set up military supply bases in that nation behind the Pyrenees.

In a statement issued by the federal press office, however, the government denied rumors that it was negotiating to establish military weapons sites or weapons training grounds in Spain.

The West Germans have been in negotiations with France, Belgium, Holland and Denmark for more than a year for establishment of supply depots in those countries. In most cases the talks have been concluded although no formal agreements have been signed, a defence ministry spokesman said.

Today's government statement said that West Germany was considering whether states other than those bordering on Germany might be preparing to permit the construction of German "logistical establishments."

Spain was understood to be one of the states under consideration, although some thought also might be given to negotiations with Norway, an informed source added.

Britain is opposed to any West German military facilities in Spain, reliable informants said.

Phone Profit Up, Spending Plan Set

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Telephone Co. will spend about $50,000,000 on expansion and improvements of its service in 1960, president C. H. McLean said here Tuesday in the firm's annual report. He said net profit for 1959 was $6,672,300, up more than two million from 1958.

Affectionate Welcome to Ike Offsets Diplomatic Mixups

BRAZILIA, Brazil (UPI)—Thousands of excited Brazilians surged around President Eisenhower and tried to embrace him yesterday in an outburst of affection that overcame a series of diplomatic mixups which almost marred the start of his "hemispheric crusade" of friendship.

Neither rain that turned the raw earth of this half-built future Brazilian capital into rivers of red mud nor wind that blew smoke into Eisenhower's face could dim the wild welcome by Brasilia's 71,000 people, mostly construction workers, to Eisenhower and his new program of aid for under-developed Latin American nations.

From the airport to the centre of the modernistic-styled city being built in the jungle wilderness, people broke through police lines and screamed "viva" at the smiling, arm waving Eisenhower.

Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek, angered and embarrassed by the fact he was late and kept Eisenhower waiting 10 minutes, had his mood dispelled by the laughing, happy American chief executive.

Before his arrival Eisenhower and Kubitchek already had agreed on a "declaration of Brasilia," a four-point, program of U.S.-Latin American friendship and mutual aid.

Mboya Asks Canada To Boycott Africa

TORONTO (CP) — African leader Tom Mboya of Kenya suggested yesterday that Canada and other Commonwealth countries should join the boycott of South African goods being organized by the Labor party in England.

"South Africa should feel the moral pressure from close friends, rather than from her old and natural enemies," he told a press conference here.

He said Canada should have taken a more positive stand in the United Nations against apartheid.

Income Tax Crackdown

Toronto Tax Dodgers Face $247,000 in Fines

Ex-MLA Assessed $9,000

TORONTO (CP) — Car dealer John C. Cragg was fined $178,000 Tuesday on charges of income tax evasion and ordered to pay the money within a month or go to penitentiary for 14 years.

Cragg, two other businessmen and five land firms who pleaded guilty to the charges two weeks ago were fined a total of $247,000 for tax evasions totalling $246,270.

Harold Fishleigh, former Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Toronto-Woodbine, was fined $9,000 or one year for evading $8,600 in taxes in 1954.

James J. Walsh was fined $2,500 or six months for evading $2,433 in taxes in 1956.

The three men were directors of several real estate firms in metropolitan Toronto.

Special prosecutor Ben Grossberg said the evasions were "deliberate and calculated."

Other charges against the five land firms were remanded to March 16. In the charges heard Tuesday the firms were accused of failing to record cash payments and receiving "kickbacks" from road development companies.

On Election

'Don't Fence Me In' —Bennett

"Don't fence me in," Premier Bennett told reporters at a press conference yesterday when they continued to press for some indication when an election would be held.

"Just because people love this budget, doesn't mean we will call an election," he said.

"My feelings are still 50-50 for this year or next. You can take it from that there will be no early election," he said.

Asked what early meant, the premier's executive assistant Dan Ekman said "tomorrow." This raised a laugh from the premier and no denial.

The premier said he would consider May early . . . "That doesn't mean that June isn't early as well," the premier laughed.

He said the increased homeowner grant will still be the No. 1 election issue.

He said he took Mr. Strachan's policy reversal in favor of the grant as "a big compliment."

"No one will have any excuse to vote CCF or Liberal," the premier said. "The Socreds are entitled to the vote, because they brought it in."

He said that "as people understand our policies they are more and more for us."

Bennett Well But Views From Afar

Premier Bennett appeared in excellent health when he dropped into his office yesterday for a brief period of work and a press conference.

"I am getting a great kick out of statements in the legislature," said the premier, who has been away since a kidney operation just before the session opened.

"You see things from a different angle when you are away from it all. . . . You get a broader approach," he said.

"We are nervous and high strung. We try to solve our problems not by cool thought but by emotionalism."

Engineer

Fraser Project Pressed

CHILLIWACK (CP) — A University of British Columbia professor is still advocating an all-but-forgotten suggestion for a dam on the Fraser River at Moran, 170 miles northeast of Vancouver.

Dr. H. B. Warren, professor of geological engineering, said at the annual meeting of the Chilliwack Board of Trade Monday night "every single engineer I know prefers development of the Moran dam to the Peace or Columbia River projects."

The $500,000,000 proposal was spiked in 1957 because of protests that the dam would destroy the river as the prime source of B.C. sockeye salmon.

Dr. Warren said the Fraser could be tamed for all time with a series of high dams in its upper reaches.

He said 100,000 acres of irrigable land could be developed by water pumped with "cheaper electric energy rates."

He said fisheries representatives remained firmly against the dam "even when backers of the Moran project offered to spend a large amount to provide access for sockeye salmon."

Toughest Teaching Post Attracts 150 UBC Bids

VANCOUVER (CP) — The toughest teaching job in Canada has attracted 150 applicants from the University of British Columbia for six available positions.

Frontier College is offering summer employment for laborer-teachers in backwoods mines, construction and logging camps.

The men must be equally familiar with the fine points of Shakespeare and the working end of a shovel.

Their teaching is done at night following a full day's work alongside their students.

The teachers will receive the going wage for their laboring jobs and a small bonus from Frontier College.

Slim for Canada

Ladies' Day At Olympics

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (CP) — Tuesday was ladies' day at the 1960 Winter Olympics, winding up with the dazzling free-skating spectacle that packed the main arena for the women's figure-skating finals.

Carol Heiss of the United States won the gold medal in a breeze—the first for the U.S. in these eighth games—to top off a day marked by a world-record-holding Russian girl's second gold medal performance and a spectacular thrill-and-spill-packed giant slalom ski race won by a pretty Swiss miss.

Miss Heiss had been regarded as a sure winner after she piled up a commanding lead in the preliminary compulsory figures in three previous days, with only the unlikely event of a fall standing between her and the Olympic title she promised her dying mother she would win.

REAL BATTLE

The real battle was for second and third places, between fellow American Barbara Roles and the European women's champion, Sjoukje Dyjkstra of The Netherlands. When the points were totalled in late afternoon, the Dutch girl had the silver medal.

Two young Canadians made good showings in the field of 26, Sandra Tewkesbury of Chatham, Ont., taking 10th place and 15-year-old Wendy Griner of Toronto 12th.

Russia's Lidija Skoblikova, a 21-year-old co-ed, came within half a second of a world record in the morning's women's 3,000-metre skating race, winning in five minutes, 14.3 sconds to take her second gold medal of the games. She won the 1,500-metre event last Saturday.

MORE POINTS

Teammate Valentina Stenina took second place in 5.16.9 to pile up more points for the Soviet Union, and Eevi Huttunen of Finland was the bronze medal winner in 5.21.0.

This race was marked by an unfortunate slip that may have cost Canada's Doreen Ryan a second or two—although both she and her coach said afterwards that it wouldn't have made any difference in her placing of 14th.

The procedure on the 400-metre ice track is to ring a bell to signal the skaters, as they race in paired heats, that they are entering the last lap. In Mrs. Ryan's heat the bell didn't sound, and to complicate matters an official held up the wrong lap card.

Thus the Edmonton housewife saved her finishing kick for an unnecessary lap and was timed for the 3,000-metre distance in only 5.39.7.

Skating coach Frank Stack of Winnipeg said: "I'm not protesting."

"Doreen might have skated one second faster if she had been given the bell at the start of the seventh lap, but even that wouldn't have changed her position. She skated as well as she's ever done."

SEVERAL TUMBLES

The women's giant slalom ski run down steep Papoose Mountain was featured by several spectacular tumbles as pretty Swiss secretary Yvonne Ruegg flashed to victory with a time of one minute, 39.9 seconds.

Miss Ruegg beat the favored American pair of Penny Pitou and Betsy Snite, who finished second and fourth with respective times of 1.40.1 and 1.40.4. Chenal Minuzzo of Italy won the bronze medal in 1.40.2.

All the winning times were close, resulting in a 12th placing for Ottawa's Anne Heggtveit who was carrying Canada's hopes for a point placing in the top six. Her time was a good 1.42.1, and the three girls immediately ahead of her were tied for ninth place. There was also another tie for fifth.

In the day's opening event, the 15-kilometre cross-country ski race, Clarence Servold of Camrose, Alta., who was a surprise second-place finisher over the same distance Monday in the Nordic combined, could make only 35th place as the north European specialists who had passed up the combined event returned to competition.

Sweden's king of skiing, Sixten Jernberg, who was out to add another gold medal to his victory last week in the 30 kilometres, was just nosed out by Norway's Hakon Brusveen who won in 51 minutes 56 seconds. Jernberg was timed in 51.58.6, with veteran Finn Veikko Hakulinen the bronze medal winner in 53.03.

Cougars Defeat Flyers; Marcel Misses Shutout

EDMONTON — Goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier, who shares the Western Hockey League record for shutouts, has only two blankings to his credit so far this season but the Victoria veteran is coming close often enough.

The colorful French-Canadian was in top form again Tuesday night as the Cougars ended Edmonton Flyers' record home-ice win streak at 14 games with a 3-1 decision.

Pelletier lost his shutout at 6.20 of the third period while his teammates were engrossed in trying to add to their point totals during a penalty to Edmonton forward Ed Diachuk. Penalty-killer Bob Solinger drove a hard shot past Pelletier from point-blank range after being set up by defenceman Hugh Coflin.

So, instead of his third shutout, Pelletier had to be satisfied with the knowledge that this was the 18th game he has held the opposition to one goal. The importance of his work is reflected in the statistics which show the Cougars have played three 1-1 ties, won by 2-1 five times and 3-1 four times.

Victory, third for the well-balanced Cougars in the five games they have played on the last of their two six-game tours of the Prairies, pushed them into a third-place tie with the Flyers and within one point of the second-place Seattle Totems.

It also boosted the Cougars 17 points ahead of the fifth-place Calgary Stampeders and the Victoria club now needs only four wins in its last 11 games to mathematically clinch a playoff spot.

Art Jones and Gordie Fashoway, centre and leftwinger, respectively, on the Cougars' most-potent line, led the way last night as each snared his 28th goal and added an assist.

Jones opened the scoring with an 18-foot drive after five minutes and Fashoway clicked from a goalmouth scramble at 11.26.

George Ford, also having a fine season, made it all but a cinch as he scored from another scramble midway through the second period. It was his 16th goal.

Cougars complete their trip tonight at Calgary, then head to the West Coast for a home-and-home weekend series with the leading Vancouver Canucks. Victoria is at Vancouver Friday, the Canucks at Victoria Saturday.

Promise to Dying Mother Fulfilled by U.S. Skater

SQUAW VALLEY (UPI)—Two years ago Carol Heiss' mother was dying in Ozone Park, N.Y.

Tears streaming from her light brown eyes, Carol, then only 18, promised her:

"I'll win the Olympic gold medal in 1960."

She fulfilled that death-bed promise yesterday.

And now she hopes they won't call the baker's daughter "a snob" anymore.

The promise stemmed from Carol's defeat by Tenley Albright, her teamamte, in the winter Olympics at Cortina, Italy in 1956.

Carol had won the 1956 world championship in Germany. Then she was upset by Tenley for the Oympic gold medal.

A year later, at St. Moritz, Switzerland, where Carol won the world championship again, she was branded "a snob" by some because she moved out of the hotel where the rest of the U.S. team was staying.

But the rest of that team didn't know that her mother was seriously ill at the time and that the room was too cold.

Carol went back to Ozone Park. Her mother's condition was worse.

That's when she made the promise. Shortly afterwards, her mother, only 42 years old, died.

She would have been proud if she could have seen her daughter yesterday. She had bundled her up before dawn for a decade to get to Madison Square Garden to practice.

The most thunderous applause that has rocked this Sierra Nevada valley echoed off the mountain sides when Carol completed her free skating figures. The capacity crowd of 8,000 in arena stood as one person and cheered.

Tears streamed down those light brown eyes again.

It isn't generally known, but Carol is in love—with another Olympic gold medal winner.

He's Hayes Alan Jenkins, who won the Olympic men's figure skating championship—back there in Cortina where Carol lost out.

In her greatest hour of triumph, Carol thought of her mother—and Hayes.

"Hayes had to stay back in Akron, O., because he is just starting to practice law," she explained. She said, too, that Hayes was busy with one other thing. He had spent his weekends going to Cleveland to help coach his brother, Dave.

So neither her mother nor her boy friend was there when she won yesterday.

But had they been, they would have been proud.

Schmautz 'Assist' Help to Cougars

Arnie Schmautz, fiery little winger who suffered a fractured skull in a game in Winnipeg last week, earned an assist last night when Victoria Cougars bested Edmonton Flyers, 3-1, at Edmonton.

Just before the Cougars stepped on the ice they received a telegram sent by Schmautz which read: Good luck. Feeling better. See you soon."

"It didn't hurt them (the Cougars) at all," manager-coach Hal Laycoe said after the game. "They went out and won it with those two goals in the first period.

Schmautz is recovering quickly from the injury and subsequent operation and is expected to return to Victoria within a week or 10 days.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

If there is any doubt as to the growing popularity of golf in this district, a visit to the various clubs last weekend would have dispelled it.

Allowing for a bright warm weekend, the number of participants was remarkable, with the winter medal competition at Gorge attracting a record field of 48.

Also noted was the number of juniors—both boys and girls—who were playing, and this betokens a keen interest in the forthcoming annual junior tuition courses organized for those of high school age through the B.C. Golf Association and the Victoria District Committee.

The Junior Development Committee is this year in the capable hands of Kenny Lawson, a former B.C. Willingdon Cup player, and information on the new courses of instruction are likely to be available early next month.

During the past week the Victoria club has also had a number of visitors from the United States—drawn here by favorable weather reports, and they seem to have enjoyed themselves.

I wonder if the tourist trade people really understand how valuable an asset to the city are the finely-kept local golf courses.

These courses, although maintained by and for their own members make visitors welcome, and so far the tourist trade people have taken the facilities more or less for granted.

With the growth in popularity of the game, this may not always be so, and some limitation upon visiting playing facilities may soon be necessary. When that is the case the tourist trade may regret that it has not taken a greater interest in the local golfing scene.

It is with this possibility in view that the Victoria District Golf Committee is anxious that in future local planning some reservations should be made for new golf facilities before urban sprawl has taken up all suitable locations.

The area around Elk and Beaver Lakes has been suggested as one of the most suitable spots for a public golf course, and as it lies directly on one of the main tourist routes to the city, it has much to recommend it.

The other day I had a chat with Vernon Macan, the well-known golf architect, who about 30 years ago, drew up a plan for an 18-hole golf course on the Elk-Beaver site.

Mr. Macan has not seen the plan for years, and he does not know how much of the 120 acres of land is still available, but he said that at the time he was convinced that it would be an excellent site.

The present available acreage suggests that there is not enough cleared land for more than nine holes, but it is possible that with further clearing and acquisition to the south, it could be laid out for 18.

Mr. Macan says that current golf construction costs come to about $5,000 a hole. With some drainage work already done, the expenditure required at Elk-Beaver could be less than this.

PRESIDENT ABSENT—First meeting of the new board of directors of the B.C. Golf Association was held in Vancouver last night with John Carlow, the re-elected president, an unavoidable absentee.

John is still in St. Joseph's Hospital in Victoria following his recent heart attack, but he is making a good recovery and is itching to get back on his feet again.

The president appointed the following as the various BCGA committees: Tournament and rules and course selection, Ernest Palmer, Ian McConnan and Les Williams, all Vancouver; membership and handicap committee, Les Paterson, Vancouver; junior development committee, Harry Young, Victoria; finance committee, Hilliard Lyle.

BUTTONS AT COLWOOD—Frank Scroggs and Bob Morrison will make a second defence of the city buttons at Colwood Sunday when they meet Roger Ross and Joe Evans of the host club.

Al Manson and Bill Carlow of the Victoria club are expected to have Bill Wakeham and Al McLeod as opponents in the junior buttons. The Victoria pair took the buttons from Kerry Greenwood and Dick Munn on their last appearance.

Back in Victoria after a holiday at San Diego is Robbie Robison, co-chairman of the Victoria Inter-Club League. While in the south, Robbie saw part of the San Diego Open at Mission Valley course, and he also played over the fine new municipal courses at Torrey Pines.

Robbie brought me along the official program of the San Diego Open. The program asks spectators to be a little more careful about disposing of candy and hot dog wrappers.

"Nothing is more disturbing to a player about to make a crucial shot than to have a mustard-smeared hot dog napkin wrap itself around his club shaft."

Empty, too!

'It Helps if You're a Hero'

Rollie Miles, veteran Negro halfback with Edmonton Eskimos, says in Canada you don't have to be a football hero to avoid racial descrimination — but it helps.

"Certainly there is anti-Negro prejudice in Edmonton, but not much against me. I think I'm accepted a little more readily," said Miles.

"People in Edmonton say to me, "You're a great football player. We like you."

Miles, father of seven children, four boys and three girls, teaches physical education, law, business fundamentals and English at the St. Joseph's High School at Edmonton and says he finds no hostile feelings towards him.

Three Ladies' Rinks Named for Playoff

Three of the four provincial champions who will have it out at the Victoria Curling Club March 14-17 for the Western Canada ladies' curling championship have been decided.

Mrs. Isabelle Ketchen of Flin Flon yesterday earned the right to defend the title she won last year at Brandon when she took the Manitoba final in straight games.

The defending champions bested Mrs. Irene Jenkins of Winnipeg's Fort Rouge Curling Club, 10-6, in the first game after getting a 5-0 jump. It was tougher in the second game but four on the seventh end gave Mrs. Ketchen an 8-5 lead. She almost lost it on the 10th, when Mrs. Jenkins missed an out-turn takeout which would have sent the game into an extra end.

Last week, Joyce McKee's Saskatoon rink won the Saskatchewan title and Irene Fraser of Vancouver earned the right to represent British Columbia.

Alberta's representative will be decided Thursday and Friday at Stettler with three finalists playing a double round-robin series. Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, defending Alberta champion, is being challenged this time by Mrs. Ethel Lees of Red Deer, the 1958 Alberta champion, and Mrs. Helen Ellis of Grande Prairie.

Cheap in Seattle, Socred Says

Is PUC Cause of High Electric Bills?

A Social Credit member wondered in the legislature yesterday whether the Public Utilities Commission might be to blame for at least part of the fact that electricity costs more in Vancouver than in Seattle.

Bert Price (SC, Vancouver-Burrard) quoted comparative electric bill figures and said that in many cases rates in Seattle were up to 50 per cent less than they were in Vancouver.

He noted that electricity rates were not set by the companies, such as the B.C. Electric, but by the Public Utilities Commission. He noted the PUC was destined to get only $343,000 in this year's budget.

He asked whether the PUC had the staff to properly assess the application for rates that the utility put forward. He suggested that if the PUC didn't have the staff, it might be taking the utility figures and letting them go at that.

"Let's make sure that the PUC gives the public the protection it deserves," he said.

Vandalism Out If Meters 'In'?

PORT ALBERNI—B.C. Power Commission meters may be moved inside buildings at Recreation Park to protect them from vandalism.

The suggestion was made by district manager F. W. Stansfield in a letter to council. He stated that the meters had been broken several times in the past and, when metal covers were placed over them, these were also broken.

The request that they be placed inside the buildings was referred to the fire, light and water committee, while Ald. Fred Weaver expressed doubt that the move would be effective.

"It won't do any good. The vandals break into the buildings," he said.

Licences

Zero Hour Near

That annual "zero hour" for licence plates is drawing near, Victoria's Chief Constable John Blackstock warned all car drivers yesterday.

"At midnight Monday, Feb. 29, all cars with 1959 licence plates must be off the streets—all streets," he said. "As of that moment, only cars with current plates will be on the streets legally.

"Any cars with old plates seen, even if just parked, will be ticketed."

Junior Football Plea

No Donations, Just Coaches

NANAIMO—Harold Hine, president of Nanaimo Canadian Amateur Football Association, made an appeal for support with a difference yesterday.

"I'm not asking for money," Mr. Hine told Kiwanis Club. "We need help on the field with the boys."

He said that his organization had grown so fast in the last two years that there were not sufficient coaches to handle the young players.

Nanaimo Redmen were runners-up to the B.C. champions in their first year.

Mr. Hine announced that a coaching and referees' school would be instituted in March.

No Reasons

Coach Deal Off

A deal which would have made Victoria's Vancouver Island Coach Lines one of the largest inter-city coach services in Canada has fallen through.

G. Conway Parrott, general manager of VICL, confirmed last night that the company failed to pick up an option to purchase two B.C. Electric subsidiaries, Pacific Stage Lines Ltd. and Vancouver Gray Line Motor Tours, both of Vancouver.

SUBJECT TO PUC

Harold Husband, owner of VICL, announced the purchase of the Vancouver firms Jan. 20, subject to approval of the Public Utilities Commission.

He could not be reached to comment on the latest development.

SERVICE STAYS

But Mr. Parrott, who declined to discuss the reasons for the deal falling through, said plans for an integrated coach service from Victoria to mainland points by way of the B.C. government's Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen ferry service would not be affected.

He said VICL will work in conjunction with the BCE subsidiaries to provide a through service.

Duncan Resident

La Chance Funeral On Friday

DUNCAN—Funeral services will be held here Friday for Mrs. Mary Ellen La Chance, 73, a resident here for five years who died yesterday in Island Home Nursing Hospital.

Born in Prince Edward Island, she had lived in B.C. for 35 years. She came here from Vancouver.

Surviving are three nephews, Jack at Ottawa, Paul at Vancouver and David, Duncan; two nieces, Mrs. Fred Wilson, Duncan, and Mrs. Gertrude McGregor, Port Alberni.

Rev. W. O. McKee will officiate at the service starting at 11 a.m. in Hirst funeral home. Burial will be in Mountain View Cemetery.

Albernis To Offer Grade 13

PORT ALBERNI—Grade 13 will be offered at Alberni District High School in the coming term, if the department of education approves.

Decision to offer courses comparable to first year university was made at a meeting of District 70 school board Monday.

Plant Mystery Easily Solved

Mystery easily solved. Provincial botanist Dr. Adam Szczawinski points to plant he identified as member of large pumpkin-marrow family which grew in pot where Japanese orange seeds were planted. Digging in soil around the plant he found disintegrated orange seeds put in by Mrs. David Moor, 4000 Lockhaven, which failed to germinate. Plant at left is Japanese orange, raised in city greenhouse, which flowered in some three years instead of five to seven—(Colonist photo.)

It was felt trolling with artificial lures is a more "sportsman-like" way of fishing.

Police said he had bragged that if he had known the police were after him they could not have caught him.

PARKSVILLE—Some 23 organizations and service clubs have been asked to send two representatives each to a special meeting Wednesday of the Parksville and District Community Society, which is being called to form an advisory board for Community Park.

Directors of the society felt that a progressive type of program could be drawn up for the park with the co-operation of various groups in the district and exchanges of ideas.

At a recent meeting of the directors a proposal was made that a summer theatre presentation be made in the park sometime in July. The proposal included a suggestion that the Victoria Theatre Guild be asked to present a popular Indian-legend musical play in an outdoor setting.

NANAIMO — A new senior high school is planned for Nanaimo, but the school board has yet to find a site. Members are seeking a site south of the city.

PORT ALBERNI—Dr. C. J. G. Mackenzie, director of Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, will be asked to attend a committee meeting of Port Alberni council to explain a plan for home nursing service in this area.

An increase in the public health nursing staff was proposed to make possible a free, full-time, seven-days-a-week service.

A 10 cents per capita increase in rates would, with funds now obtained from senior governments, finance staffing on a ratio of one nurse to each 3,500 population to provide the service, according to the letter. Present staff is on a one-to-5,000 basis.

If councils of the twin cities favor the plan, Dr. Mackenzie said, an effort should be made to interest unorganized areas of the district in the service.

He pointed out that a full-time home nursing service permits physicians to discharge patients from hospital earlier and in some cases obviates the necessity of hospitalization.

Bishop Tells Christians:

'Come to Grips With the World'

The growing church of today is taking an increasingly active part in the affairs of humanity at all levels, from the family unit to legislative bodies.

This is only natural, Rt. Rev. Ernest Reed, Bishop of Ottawa, told the Colonist yesterday. The church and its leaders try to follow the policy set down by Jesus Christ, who entered the world to help mankind to redemption.

Bishop Reed is conducting a Parish Teaching Mission all this week, for adults every evening at Christ Church Cathedral, and for children daily at 4 p.m. at James Bay Hall, Niagara and Medina.

The mission, Bishop Reed explained, was not a "teacher-recruiting" plan; nor was it evangelical in nature. Its purpose was to bring church and people closer together by explaining one to the other, and by answering questions and problems.

Of the part ministers might play in community affairs, he said:

"It is very important for people of the Christian faith to come to grips with the contemporary situation in the world. Not only the ministers, but all church people should take an active part in community affairs at all levels. This is the heart of the Christian religion.

"God is just as interested in the affairs of the legislature as in those of the church building."

Bishop Reed was rather pleased with the young people of today.

"They have more freedom than, say, in my day," he said. "This brings more responsibilities, and they in turn bring more problems. I find the young people of today facing up to those responsibilities and problems better than when I was a youngster."

Death was believed caused by heart failure.

School Buses Ruled Out For Concerts

School-sponsored transportation to Victoria Symphony Orchestra educational concerts was ruled out by Saanich school district 63 this week.

A letter from Royal Oak High School principal John Clark pointed out the school district's three buses would not carry all the students to the Canada Council-sponsored concerts and asked trustees to arrange for extra transportation.

After some discussion, a majority of trustees decided it would be too expensive to transport students to the concerts.

TAX DODGERS IN TORONTO FINED TOTAL OF $247,000

Bonn Woos Franco

BONN, Germany (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government indicated yesterday it was considering negotiating with Spain for the right to set up military supply bases in that nation behind the Pyrenees.

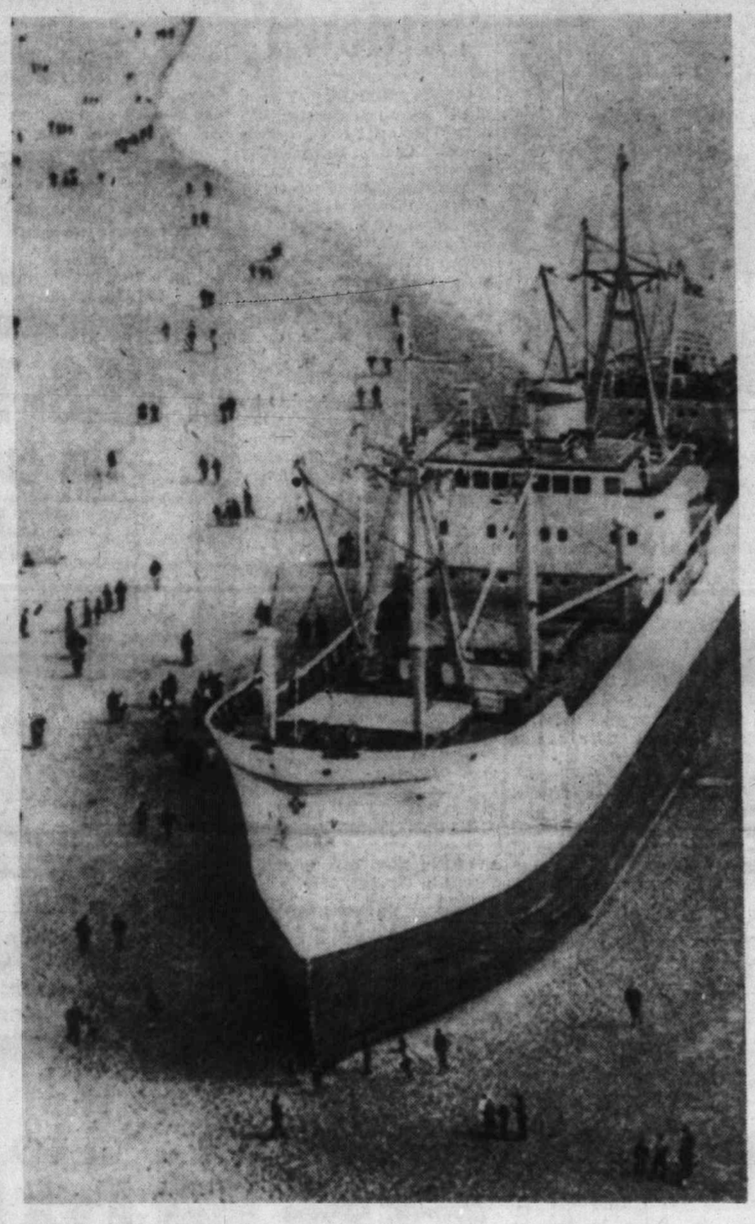

In a statement issued by the federal press office, however, the government denied rumors that it was negotiating to establish military weapons sites or weapons training grounds in Spain.

The West Germans have been in negotiations with France, Belgium, Holland and Denmark for more than a year for establishment of supply depots in those countries. In most cases the talks have been concluded although no formal agreements have been signed, a defence ministry spokesman said.

The government's statement said that West Germany was considering whether states other than those bordering on Germany might be preparing to permit the construction of German "logistical establishments."

Spain was understood to be one of the states under consideration, although some thought also might be given to negotiations with Norway, an informed source added.

Britain is opposed to any West German military facilities in Spain, reliable informants said.

'Don't Fence Me In' —Bennett

"Don't fence me in," Premier Bennett told reporters at a press conference yesterday when they continued to press for some indication when an election would be held.

Bennett Well But Views From Afar

Premier Bennett appeared in excellent health when he dropped into his office yesterday for a brief period of work and a press conference.

"I am getting a great kick out of statements in the legislature," said the premier, who has been away since a kidney operation just before the session opened.

"You see things from a different angle when you are away from it all. . . . You get a broader approach," he said.

"Just because people love this budget, doesn't mean we will call an election," he said.

"My feelings are still 50-50 for this year or next. You can take it from that there will be no early election," he said.

Asked what early meant, the premier's executive assistant Dan Ekman said "tomorrow." This raised a laugh from the premier and no denial.

The premier said he would consider May early . . . "That doesn't mean that June isn't early as well," the premier laughed.

He said the increased homeowner grant will still be the No. 1 election issue.

He said he took Mr. Strachan's policy reversal in favor of the grant as "a big compliment."

"No one will have any excuse to vote CCF or Liberal," the premier said. "The Socreds are entitled to the vote, because they brought it in."

He said that "as people understand our policies they are more and more for us."

St. Vitus Patron For U.S.?

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale of New York said Tuesday the patron saint of the United States should be St. Vitus.

"We are nervous and high strung. We try to solve our problems not by cool thought but by emotionalism."

Three Face Prison

TORONTO (CP) — Car dealer John C. Cragg was fined $178,000 Tuesday on charges of income tax evasion and ordered to pay the money within a month or go to penitentiary for 14 years.

Cragg, two other businessmen and five land firms who pleaded guilty to the charges two weeks ago were fined a total of $247,000 for tax evasions totalling $246,270.

Harold Fishleigh, former Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Toronto-Woodbine, was fined $9,000 or one year for evading $8,600 in taxes in 1954.

James J. Walsh was fined $2,500 or six months for evading $2,433 in taxes in 1956.

The three men were directors of several real estate firms in metropolitan Toronto.

Special prosecutor Ben Grossberg said the evasions were "deliberate and calculated."

Other charges against the five land firms were remanded to March 16. In the charges heard Tuesday the firms were accused of failing to record cash payments and receiving "kickbacks" from road development companies.

Engineer

Fraser Project Pressed

CHILLIWACK (CP) — A University of British Columbia professor is still advocating an all-but-forgotten suggestion for a dam on the Fraser River at Moran, 170 miles northeast of Vancouver.

Dr. H. B. Warren, professor of geological engineering, said at the annual meeting of the Chilliwack Board of Trade Monday night "every single engineer I know prefers development of the Moran dam to the Peace or Columbia River projects."

The $500,000,000 proposal was spiked in 1957 because of protests that the dam would destroy the river as the prime source of B.C. sockeye salmon.

Dr. Warren said the Fraser could be tamed for all time with a series of high dams in its upper reaches.

He said 100,000 acres of irrigable land could be developed by water pumped with "cheaper electric energy rates."

He said fisheries representatives remained firmly against the dam "even when backers of the Moran project offered to spend a large amount to provide access for sockeye salmon."

Affectionate Welcome to Ike Offsets Diplomatic Mixups

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI)—Thousands of excited Brazilians surged around President Eisenhower and tried to embrace him yesterday in an outburst of affection that overcame a series of diplomatic mixups which almost marred the start of his "hemispheric crusade" of friendship.

Neither rain that turned the raw earth of this half-built future Brazilian capital into rivers of red mud nor wind that blew smoke into Eisenhower's face could dim the wild welcome by Brasilia's 71,000 people, mostly construction workers, to Eisenhower and his new program of aid for under-developed Latin American nations.

From the airport to the centre of the modernistic-styled city being built in the jungle wilderness, people broke through police lines and screamed "viva" at the smiling, arm waving Eisenhower.

Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek, angered and embarrassed by the fact he was late and kept Eisenhower waiting 10 minutes, had his mood dispelled by the laughing, happy American chief executive.

Before his arrival Eisenhower and Kubitschek already had agreed on a "declaration of Brasilia," a four-point, program of U.S.-Latin American friendship and mutual aid.

Phone Profit Up, Spending Plan Set

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Telephone Co. will spend about $50,000,000 on expansion and improvements of its service in 1960, president C. H. McLean said here Tuesday in the firm's annual report. He said net profit for 1959 was $6,672,300, up more than two million from 1958.

Toughest Teaching Post Attracts 150 UBC Bids

VANCOUVER (CP) — The toughest teaching job in Canada has attracted 150 applicants from the University of British Columbia for six available positions.

The men must be equally familiar with the fine points of Shakespeare and the working end of a shovel.

Their teaching is done at night following a full day's work alongside their students.

The teachers will receive the going wage for their laboring jobs and a small bonus from Frontier College.

B.C. May Go After 1968 Winter Olympics

Deputy provincial secretary Lawrie Wallace said Tuesday the British Columbia cabinet hopes to hold a fact-finding meeting soon with parties interested in bringing the 1968 Winter Olympic Games to Garibaldi Park.

Mr. Wallace said every effort will be made to arrange a meeting with Canadian Olympic representative Sydney Dawes and Dave Matthews, president of the B.C. Amateur Athletic Union.

Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood and Premier Bennett have already expressed interest in the suggestion the games be held at Garibaldi Park, 30 miles northeast of Vancouver. A U.S. business syndicate is interested in developing Garibaldi as a resort area.

Earlier in Ottawa, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he has no knowledge of any plans to build a $12,000,000 skating rink in Vancouver. He was replying in the Commons to Guy Rouleau (L, Montreal-Dollard) who asked whether there were plans to build such a rink with a view to attracting the 1968 Winter Olympics to Western Canada.
